TOKIO HAILS PACT WITH REDS

HAND OF STALIN SEEN AT HELM OF CIO SEAMEN

Communist Bosses Rule Ship Union.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 13.—A current of Moscow Red, wide and deep, flows thru the heart of America's blue water industry—the merchant marine.

Communist leaders control the actions and, in many cases, the thinking of thousands of the sailors who man American flag ships. Their final goal when the time is ripe is control of American shipping itself.

This broad picture of American crews was pieced together on a recent trip from New York to Havana and return. Traveling as a passenger, this correspondent discussed the extent of the Red influence with able-bodied seamen, stewards, waiters, deck and engine gangs, and the officers.

Fail to Stem Red Infiltration.

Older heads among the seamen ruefully admitted communist minorities dominated their unions, and said they feared to oppose them. Officers told stories of how some old timers were beaten and slashed when they sought to stem the Red infiltration in the sailors' ranks.

Boss of most of the American seamen is Joseph Curran, lanky, gruff, belligerent head of the National Maritime union. Curran controls about 30,000 sailors in the Atlantic and gulf coastal trades, half of whom pay dues. The union is one of the most powerful units in the CIO.

Curran has always hotly denied he was a communist, but the actual physical possession of a card in the American branch of the party has long been regarded as a mere technicality by the smouldering opposition in his big industrial union. The line of policy is what counts.

Follow Zig-zag Party Lines.

Before the Nazi-soviet nonaggression pact and afterward, Curran and his clique in control of the key positions in the NMU have followed the zig-zagging party line policy laid down by Josef Stalin in Moscow. Like other CIO unions dominated by the Reds, the NMU and Joe Curran are currently opposing the building up of Uncle Sam's defenses.

The power behind Curran is Roy [Horse Face] Hudson, known as the waterfront commissar here in New York. Hudson master minded the riotous strikes thru which the NMU built up the union several years ago.

Curran and his followers welcomed aid from the communists, with their strike techniques, but when the organization work was completed the Reds were in the saddles and have stayed there.

Curran Catapulted into Power.

It was during a sitdown strike on the S. S. California in 1936 that Curran, then nearing 40 years of age, was catapulted into power. Curran had never risen above a bos'n's job, never served more than a few months on ship and had joined the union only a few months before he led the strike.

The Red invasion of the merchant marine really began in 1930 when the Marine Workers Industrial union evolved out of the Marine Workers' league, which in turn had been formed by the Trade Union Unity league. The league was an outgrowth of the International Seamen's clubs which were affiliated with the action committee of the Red international or comintern.

An International of Seamen and Harbor Workers, organized by the communists in 1930, had its American branch in the Marine Workers Industrial union. The MWIU was subsidized from Moscow. Here in New York the communists have conducted classes for seamen and many of the Red saturated graduates are today holding key posts in the NMU.

Never Stop Complaining.

Because of the short sightedness of some ship owners the ranks of the sailors have been fertile ground for the growth of communists. The owners did nothing to improve the lot of seamen.

In the floating palaces turned out today by the maritime commission for the government subsidized lines there is little with which the sailor can find fault. He has showers, a recreation room, mattresses on his bunk, air conditioning and many other comforts. Food is excellent.

The sailor in the NMU is getting $90 a month and his keep. He works eight hours and gets pay for overtime.

War Makes Easter Parade Old Clothes Day in London

LONDON, April 13 (AP).—The high cost of paying for the war today made London's Easter parade a review of the best clothes worn last year rather than a preview of what is to be worn this year. It was an ideal day for a parade but there were no bespatted gentlemen squiring fancy hatted women in the crowds on the Strand or in Piccadilly. For the most part, both men and women were in uniforms. King George and Queen Elizabeth set the style for passing the Easter week-end, retiring quietly to the country.

Page 7 is a full page of pictures of the Easter parade and new spring styles in hats seen yesterday. On page 15 are other pictures and stories of the Easter celebration in Chicago.

Yesterday was the warmest Easter in Chicago's history, and—

Birds sang. Buds swelled. And Chicagoans by the hundreds of thousands got outdoors as the Easter sun sent the temperature climbing to 82.2 degrees.

Churches were crowded for Easter services, and the Easter parade was the gayest and most colorful in memory. [Details on page 15.]

30,000 Visit Preserves.

Thirty thousand persons strolled thru the forest preserves, while other thousands thronged the parks. Bridle paths were crowded with riders. The highways were jammed with cars.

Easter of 1941 was not only the warmest on record, surpassing by 1.2 degrees the previous high set on March 27, 1910, but the temperature equaled the April 13 heat record set in 1887.

The midwest was the nation's hot spot. It was warmer in Chicago than in New Orleans, or Miami, or Yuma, or Los Angeles.

At 8 a. m. a small but hardy band of bird lovers met at the Trailside museum for a hike thru Thatcher woods in River Forest under the guidance of the museum's curator, Gordon Pearsall. For two hours the hikers wandered about the woods, most of them with field glasses, watching for different types of birds, animals, and plants.

Identify Birds—and a Plane.

Out of the air, the band identified a hermit thrush, a yellow-bellied woodpecker, a kingfisher, a twin motored stratoliner, a golden-wing woodpecker, and a sharpshinned hawk, among others.

On the ground, a cottontail rabbit, that waited until the expedition was almost on top of it to explode out of a brush patch, sent two women into hysterics; and a snake — Pearsall vowed it was a nonpoisonous garter snake—did its best to ruin the day.

One of the slickest denizens of the woods is the yellow-bellied woodpecker, also known as the sapsucker, according to the guide. This fellow could be both heard and seen at work as he drilled holes in maple trees.

The wild plants, most of which have budded within the last four days, are well along for this time of year, the curator said. Blue and dogtooth violets, wild leek, May apples, spring beauties, wild ginger, and bluebells are up.

AMERICANS WARNED FOR THIRD TIME TO LEAVE ISTANBUL AREA

ISTANBUL, Turkey, April 13 (AP).—The United States consulate wrote a third warning today to all American citizens to leave the Istanbul area. The warning said "accommodations on the few remaining routes to America are well booked up in advance. In the event of an extension of the war, this country would probably be extremely difficult if not impossible to leave by any normal means of transportation."

A number of American citizens, especially women and children, left Turkey some time ago upon advice from the consulate. There are about 300 Americans in Turkey now, most of them in Istanbul.

Antiair raid and antiparachutist tests were carried out in the Istanbul area today. The governor of Istanbul will meet mayors of the area tomorrow to organize the speedy evacuation of nationals suggested by the government last week.

TWO ARE KILLED AT SING SING AS 3 FELONS ESCAPE

Ossining, N. Y., April 14, Monday (AP).—Ossining police headquarters reported early today that one policeman was killed and a Sing Sing convict shot to death in a prison break in which three other felons escaped.

Prison authorities declined to give details of the break, but it was learned that an emergency call was sent for extra guards. State police also were called to join in the search.

There was a report that the three escaped prisoners had confiscated a rowboat and disappeared in the darkness on the Hudson river, on which the great state prison fronts.

EXTRA DAYLIGHT!

The 28 extra hours of sunshine which will be available if the city council extends daylight saving thru October would be a gift to all Chicagoans of valuable time which could be used for healthful relaxation and enjoyment. William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools, said yesterday the added daylight would result in:

1. More playtime for children after school.

2. More time for parents to spend with their children in out-of-doors activities.

3. Better health for every one because of the increased fresh air and sunshine.

4. Fewer accidents to school children traveling between home and school because of better visibility in the afternoons.

Air Chief Tells England: U. S. Secrets Yours

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 13.—Maj. Gen. Henry H. Arnold, chief of the United States air corps and deputy chief of staff, who arrived in London last night, dined with Air Marshal Sir Charles Portal, chief of the British bomber command today, and later saw British and American newspaper men at the American embassy.

Maj. Gen. Henry H. Arnold.

Gen. Arnold described the purpose of his visit as "to gain first hand information and to further the wishes of President Roosevelt for coöperation with a view to contributing to the enactment of the lend-lease act."

This means, he told the Britons, that "we are anxious to send you the material needed with the least possible delay."

No Secrets Now.

The air chief said he hoped to visit RAF operation commands if time permitted. He asserted the British and Americans already were standardizing their aeronautical equipment and that they were no longer withholding any secrets from one another.

Replying to a remark that the vaunted Sperry bombsight had not proved as valuable in war operations as the Americans predicted, he said that "among the things I would like to find out is whether this [the bombsight] is as good as we think it is."

Press Hails Order.

Gen. Arnold also assured the Britishers that the construction of big bombers in the United States was continuing on the level estimated. He refused to comment on the possibilities of American ships being sunk in the Red sea or whether they would carry antiaircraft equipment, as President Roosevelt's order authorizing American shipping to proceed in those waters was made after Gen. Arnold left the United States.

The British press is hailing the President's order, which was issued after the recent British capture of Massaua, Red sea port of Italian Eritrea.

Questioned about America's attitude toward Japan, the air chief said "there was always concern about Japan and other nations." He said that "judging from the operations over China, our information is that the Japanese have some very good aircraft on sea and land made by the Japanese themselves."

GERMANS REACH EGYPT; BATTLE AROUND SOLLUM

CAIRO, Egypt, April 13 (AP).—German columns which brushed aside British opposition in Libya in a rapid sweep from beyond Bengazi have reached the Egyptian-Libyan border and are fighting in the area around Sollum, informed sources said tonight.

Thus the axis force has driven to within a few miles of the point from which the British launched their Libyan offensive last December 9.

The British acknowledged that the Germans entered Bardia, 10 miles west of the Egyptian frontier, and that fighting still was going on around Tobruk, 80 miles west of Bardia. The royal air force reported that British fighters and bombers attacked and dispersed tanks and other axis vehicles drawn up for attack near Tobruk.

Detour Around Tobruk.

The mechanized column which entered Bardia detoured around Tobruk when it met opposition there. British quarters declared that the evacuation of Bardia by their forces and its occupation by the Germans had not cut their communications with Tobruk.

[The axis entry into Bardia came after a lightning drive of more than 700 miles [air line distance] eastward from Tripoli, jumping off place of German and Italian mechanized forces. It followed by less than three weeks the beginning of the British withdrawal from El Agheila, western-most point of their two month offensive and 360 miles from the Egyptian frontier.]

Berlin Watches Libya.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 13.—With German troops on the Egyptian border following the fall of Bardia, the battle of Egypt has begun in earnest. Notwithstanding the Balkan campaign, the main military interest in Berlin today centered in Libya.

The crucial questions as seen from here seem to be: Are Gen. Erwin Rommel's armored divisions strong enough to push on into Egypt while British forces are held up in Greece and in east Africa? Will their equipment enable them to cross one of the most formidable deserts in the world? Will the huge fleets of German transport planes and the water wagons of the motorized forces be able to supply the German armored corps with fuel and water?

Gen. Rommel was said to have made day long plane flights over Libya to study the terrain before launching the blitz attack.

Report Cruiser Sunk.

Reports in Berlin said the port of Tobruk was held by the British at great sacrifice even after the fall of Bardia in order to embark what was left of their expeditionary force in Libya. An auxiliary cruiser was reported sunk in the harbor. According to German estimates, British mechanized forces have lost about half of their equipment.

With all of Cyrenaica again in the hands of the axis powers, large scale air raids on the Suez canal region from closer bases can be expected soon, it was indicated.

URGE CITIZENSHIP INTERCHANGE BY U. S. AND BRITAIN

DEVON, England, April 13 (AP).—A resolution favoring the interchange of citizenship between Great Britain and the United States was adopted unanimously today at a meeting of the national council of federal union. The council is an organization founded in 1939, seeking the post-war union of nations as a foundation for permanent peace.

NEW AGREEMENT CALLED BLOW TO F.D.R. DIPLOMACY

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 13.—News of the friendship pact signed by Japan and Russia fell like a bomb upon official Washington today. On every side it was recognized as a diplomatic disaster for the Roosevelt administration, which has been cultivating Russia as a potential ally against Japan and Germany.

In entering into this vital understanding with Japan, Josef Stalin, the soviet dictator, has given fresh evidence of the virtual alliance of Russia with the axis powers. Coming on the heels of the allied reverses in the Balkans and northern Africa, the intelligence deepened the gloom pervading administration circles.

The only encouragement administration leaders found in the development was the suggestion that while Japan had assured herself of a free hand in the far east, Russia may have been actuated by a desire to forestall a flank attack by Japan if Russia gets into the war against Germany. Russia recently has engaged in Balkan diplomatic maneuvers against Germany and the Nazis are reported to be massing troops on the Russian frontier.

Hull Says Nothing.

At the state department it was stated that no official confirmation on the signing of the pact had been received, that the only information had come from the press. No comment was forthcoming from Secretary of State Cordell Hull or other government officials. President Roosevelt received the news but made no comment for publication.

Critics of the administration regarded the development as one that will encourage Japan to start a war of aggression in the Pacific in which Mr. Roosevelt's policy seems likely to involve the United States. According to their view, the incident illuminates the ineptness of the Roosevelt statesmanship, which is courting a war on two fronts four years before our two ocean navy can be completed.

"The Russo-Japanese agreement," said Senator Gerald P. Nye [R., N.D.], "certainly smacks of no favor to the United States if our government is to continue its interventions in the aggressions of the far east. Of course, the fact is that Japan and Russia have merely done what we should have done months ago: Gone out and made some friends instead of making enemies."

The President's Activities.

That America did not make a friend of Russia, however, was not for want of trying. Mr. Roosevelt set out to wean Stalin away from Germany and steel him against the wiles of Tokio. Functioning as preserver of the peace in the Pacific region, the rôle assigned the United States by the British government, Mr. Roosevelt sought to build up Russia as a menace to Japan. His object was to convince the Japanese warlords that if they moved against British Singapore or the Dutch East Indies, Russia probably would make common cause with the United States in attacking Japan.

In pursuance of this policy the administration broke the ice that had formed over the relations of the United States and Russia. Sumner

U. S. IS BACKING YOU, CHURCHILL INFORMS SERBS IN BROADCAST

LONDON, April 13 (AP).—Prime Minister Winston Churchill tonight broadcast a message to the Jugo-Slavs that the "British empire is fighting with you and behind us is the great democracy of the United States with its vast and ever increasing resources." He told the Jugo-Slavs they had been attacked by a "ruthless, barbarous aggressor," adding:

"Your capital has been bombed, your women and children brutally murdered. Our cities in England, too, have been bombed by the same insensate foe. Our women and children have been murdered. Our sympathy for you, therefore, is heartfelt, for we are sharing the same sufferings."

The prime minister said the Jugo-Slavs are making heroic resistance against formidable odds and thus "proving true to your great traditions."

[The British radio said last night that Jugo-Slav Premier General Dusan Simovitch replied to Prime Minister Churchill's broadcast with a declaration that Jugo-Slavs "do not entertain the idea of surrender."]

EACH PLEDGES TO STAY OUT OF OTHER'S WARS

Foreign Chiefs Sign Treaty in Moscow.

BY KIMPEI SHEBA.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, April 14, Monday.—The Russian-Japanese five year neutrality pact signed in Moscow yesterday was hailed here this morning as one of the most significant diplomatic events of the year. It came as a complete surprise to the Japanese public.

Vyacheslav Molotov [top]. Yosuke Matsuoka.

It was signed by Japanese Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka and the soviet Russian foreign commissar, Vyacheslav Molotov.

The pact provides that in case one of the signatories becomes the object of military action at the hands of a third power the other will remain neutral thruout. Thus, in substance, it bears the character of a nonaggression pact.

Once Spurned a Pact.

Official quarters declared that in view of the present international situation the pact holds extremely great political significance. It was recalled that Moscow proposed a nonaggression pact in 1931 which Japan spurned.

[A Domei (Japanese) news agency dispatch from Shanghai said the pact "guarantees the security of Japan's northern back door in the event she is involved in a Pacific war." Observers said it removes a check on Japanese ambitions to move southward toward the Philippines, French Indo-China, the Dutch East Indies and might be a deterrent to the United States in moving its fleet out of the Pacific to engage in convoy duty in the Atlantic.]

Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoe described the pact as "epoch making" and as a contribution to "promotion of world peace." He declared the agreement was entered upon to realize the purpose of the three power pact with Germany and Italy—namely to "prevent the world-wide spread of war and to secure the peace of greater east Asia."

Linked with Axis Powers.

The Tokio newspaper Nichi Nichi declared the pact notably strengthened the axis treaty thru the perfect linking of Japan, Germany, Italy, and the soviet. Nichi Nichi said the arrangement concerning Manchukuo and Outer Mongolia, where there have been border disputes for years, dispelled all further concern there.

The newspaper Asahi saw a renewed advance for axis diplomacy amid the present tumult thruout the world. It said:

"Hitherto relations between Japan and the soviet were anything but bright altho they should have been friendly because of geographic and economic reasons. The present treaty is the wisest answer to the instigators of the war who have been expecting a soviet-Japanese conflict."

Asahi emphasized that the pact does not mean that Japan has made any change whatever regarding Russia's national ideology [communism].

The Japanese press constantly has played upon the theme that some solution soon will be forthcoming in China, where Japanese forces have been engaged for almost four years.

Pact Ends Long Duel.

MOSCOW, April 13 (AP).—Soviet Russia and Japan, long time dueling powers of the far east, joined in a neutrality pact today that may be as portentous as the nonaggression accord between Berlin and Moscow in 1939 which preceded the German invasion of Poland.

In a four point pact, each agreed to remain neutral thruout any period during which either of the signatories is the "object of military action on the part of one or several powers."

Each undertakes to respect the

GERMANS ENTER BELGRADE WEEK AFTER STARTING

Panzer Troops Roll Into Battered Capital.

BERLIN, April 13 (AP).—German panzer units rolled into Belgrade, Jugo-Slavia's abandoned and battered capital, shortly after dawn today, the Nazi high command announced, just a week to the day after launching its twin campaign against that Balkan country and Greece.

Nazi mechanized units pounding up the Serbian plain from the south moved into Belgrade, the high command reported, after small groups of storm troopers had crossed the Danube from the north late yesterday and entered the city to hoist the swastika over the German legation.

Prisoners at Zagreb.

At Nazi occupied Zagreb, capital of Croatia, in northwest Jugo-Slavia, 22 generals, including two army commanders, 200 other officers, and 12,000 men have been seized.

"In south Serbia," the communique continued, "the march forward continued as planned, after overcoming localized opposition by remnants of dispersed Serb troops."

[In Ankara, Turkey, a Jugo-Slav spokesman declared that 95 per cent of the Serbian army and the first and fourth Croat armies still were intact and fighting the axis invaders. "We will defend Bosnia, Montenegro, and Dalmatia," this source said.]

Attack Serb Airdromes.

German air units blasted away at airports, troop and freight trains in Jugo-Slavia. A total of 39 planes were destroyed in raids on airdromes in Bosnia and Herzegovina.

Sarajevo, the town where the world war "started" with the assassination of the Austrian Archduke Ferdinand, was bombed at noon today by the Germans, DNB, official news agency, said.

Jugo-Slavs Counterattack.

LONDON, April 13 (AP).—Jugo-Slav soldiers are counterattacking German troops along a jagged front on both sides of the Morava river southeast of Belgrade and have recaptured ground in the southwest Jugo-Slav mountains, London military circles declared today. The Jugo-Slavs, on the basis of latest reports to these military circles, have:

1. Counterattacked along the Morava.
2. Isolated a German force which reached Topola, 40 miles south of Belgrade.
3. Retaken Prokuplje, 18 miles west of Nish.
4. Driven another German force back to Suharjeka, 40 miles northwest of Skoplje.
5. Advanced southwestward in the same area toward the Kacanik gorge, 20 miles northwest of Skoplje, fighting down from mountains and avoiding open places where the Germans could use mechanized equipment.

Italians Continue Advance.

ROME, April 13 (AP).—The Italians today announced their forces had extended their advance into Jugo-Slavia from their northern frontier and from Albania and had made further contact with the Germans at Karlovac, rail town some 30 miles southwest of Zagreb.

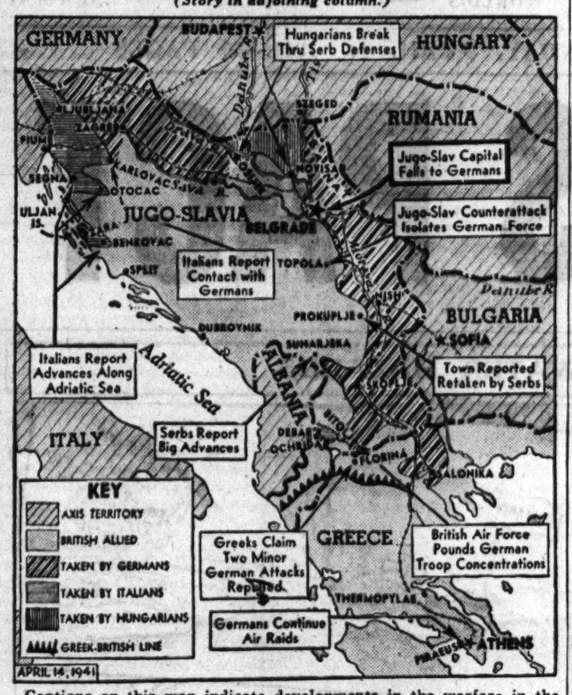
"Several thousand prisoners" were reported captured by a Fascist column pushing beyond Ochrida, Jugo-Slav town on the lake of the same name near the juncture of the Jugo-Slav, Albanian, and Greek borders. An additional thousand prisoners, including two generals, and 18 batteries of field artillery, were reported taken in the Debar sector on the Albanian-Jugo-Slav frontier above Ochrida.

Hungarians Gain.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, April 13 (AP).—The Hungarian high command announced today total occupation of a triangle in Jugo-Slavia between the Drava and Tisa rivers, with Hungarian troops reaching Novisad, 40 miles northwest of Belgrade on the Danube river. Hungarian parachutists were landed behind Jugo-Slav lines to hold bridges until other troops drew up.

Developments in the Balkans

(Story in adjoining column.)



Captions on this map indicate developments in the warfare in the Balkans. Most of the news from Jugo-Slavia was reported from London.

Cites Withdrawal of Many Troops.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, April 13.—Admiral Jean Darlan, France's vice premier, has asked the Germans for a drastic reduction in its charges for the occupation of France on the grounds that the occupational forces have been greatly reduced, reliable sources here said tonight.

Troops Reduced Two-Thirds.

The Germans are charging the French 400,000,000 francs [about $8,000,000] daily for the costs of occupation and the Bank of France, up to the end of March, has passed credits to the Germans on this account to the extent of 100,000,000,000 francs [about $2,000,000,000].

Admiral Darlan's argument to the Germans is that the daily cost was fixed at a time when there were 3,000,000 German soldiers quartered in France. The French declare this figure has been reduced to one-third because of troop withdrawals to other areas and the occupation costs ought to be decreased proportionally.

Let Credit Lie Unused.

The French have claimed also recently that the Germans have not used the sums exacted for the costs of occupation and that a credit of something around 50,000,000,000 francs [$1,000,000,000] lies unused in the Bank of France which could be used by the Germans for purchases in France, as for instance, acquiring controling interests in French industries and other enterprises.

Large Plane Delivered to Private Buyer Called Back

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., April 13 (AP).—A $112,000 twin engined Lockheed Lodestar, delivered a few days ago to Arthur Kudner, New York advertising man, was recalled to the Burbank, Cal., factory today. Government sources in Washington, D. C., were skeptical of reports the army had ordered repossession of the plane—commercial counterpart of Hudson light bombers—and Robert E. Gross, Lockheed president, declared it was simply a private transaction. Two company pilots took off for Burbank in the plane during the morning.

BARE ANCIENT BURIAL PLACE OF JERUSALEM

JERUSALEM, Palestine, April 13.—An ancient Jerusalem burial place that dates back to the first century has been uncovered on a hillside near Nahariyah, north of the crusader town of Acre, it was reported here today. Nahariyah is a seaside village established since 1933 by refugee German Jews.

Three groups of tombs were reported to have been cleared. One consists of a central hall surrounded by side chambers that contained several clay coffins and the remains of a child. Bronze household utensils, lamps, vases, dishes, and coins, apparently funerary ornaments, were found.

One chamber seemingly had been prepared by husband and wife as a family vault. Portraits of the deceased were painted on the wall, which bears Greek inscriptions, now under translation.

Nazis Drop 'Easter Eggs' on Two Malta Airports

BERLIN, April 13 (AP).—DNB, official German news agency, said today the British airports of Lavenezia and Luca, on Malta, were given a shower of "Easter eggs" by the German air force in the early morning hours. Considerable damage was done to runways and parked planes, said the agency, which also claimed a direct bomb hit was made on the stern of a British destroyer.

Mrs. Snyder's candies are MADE that way!

RICHMAN BROTHERS
THANK YOU
FOR THE BIGGEST EASTER BUSINESS IN MANY YEARS

We expected a large business, and we prepared for it with big, complete selections of everything new and smart in suits and topcoats.

Your response, however, was so great that it simply overwhelmed our capacity to render our usual good service. We deeply regret this and trust you will make due allowance for the difficult conditions under which we worked.

Even so, there were few whom we could not serve, and to all who were disappointed, we offer our sincere apologies.

We also wish to take this opportunity to express our deepest appreciation to the Richman Family for their loyal help and cooperation under trying and difficult circumstances.

REPULSED ONCE, NAZIS FEEL OUT GREEK DEFENSES

British Bombers Attack Behind the Lines.

ATHENS, Greece, April 13 (AP). — German mechanized forces felt cautiously today for weak spots in the Greek-British main defense line while the royal air force lashed out at troops on the move behind the Nazi lines.

Advices from the front said that after the Germans were repulsed Friday with heavy losses in the 12 mile stretch between Florina and Vanitsa, two minor German attacks were tried and also failed.

A Greek communique reported "restricted contact activities," presumably in the Florina-Vanitsa area of the northwest and in the Vardar valley on the northeast.

The British, in a London communique, likewise said, "our patrols have been in touch with the enemy in the Monastir [Bitolj] gap area," but said there was no report of further British-German fighting.

Hunt for Soft Spots.

These advices, military observers said, meant that the Germans had barged up against an obstacle and were now trying to find any soft spots while bringing up more masses of men in southern Jugo-Slavia for their next attempt. These re-enforcements, however, were subjected to a pounding from the air, particularly in the vicinity of Bitolj, Jugo-Slavia.

The British said many hits were registered on German motor convoys around Bitolj while another RAF formation dealt out the same treatment to motor vehicles proceeding toward the port of Valona, in the Italian held portion of Albania.

Three waves of German planes bombed Volos Saturday night but no casualties resulted, the Greeks said. Three of the raiders were shot down by antiaircraft fire and fell into the Ægean sea.

Three Other Planes Downed.

In giving additional details of the German attack on Piraeus, the port for Athens, Friday night, the RAF announced that three German planes had been definitely destroyed by night fighters and that several others were severely damaged.

[The German high command said two tank concentrations, a power plant, and a mill were "successfully bombed" at Piraeus and one British plane was shot down. On the same night, the Germans said, a 4,000 ton merchant ship was bombed and sunk in Salamis roadstead and four other big ships were hit.]

A Greek spokesman said German planes dropped leaflets announcing they had come "to free us from the British."

However, he said, "the Germans fought only Greek forces along the Bulgarian border, sank the hospital ship Attiki, and bombed the civilian population.

Promises to Bulgaria.

The spokesman said the Italians in Albania had attempted to approach the Greek lines near the Viosa river but were driven back with losses.

COSTA RICA WILL SELL NAZI AND ITALIAN SHIPS

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, April 13.—The Costa Rican government, it was stated today, plans to sell the Italian 6,000 ton ship Fella and the German 4,000 ton Eisenach, both of which were burned by their crews in the port of Puntarenas recently.

A salvage company has reported the ships can be repaired and used. The government will use the funds obtained from the sale of the ships for the maintenance of their crews here.

The Supreme court has refused to grant habeas corpus writs for the officers of the ships charged with sabotage on the ground that their detention is provisional and does not warrant such proceedings. Capt. Gabrielle Locatelli of the Fella is in a hospital, where he is expected to recover from an attempt at suicide by swallowing ground glass and bits of safety razor blades.

HEAR OF ANOTHER BRITISH RAID ON NORWEGIAN TOWN

LONDON, April 13.—A British warship described as a torpedo boat raided a small port in northern Norway, according to the Gothenburg correspondent of the Swedish paper Aftonbladet. No official confirmation of this sortie was available here today, but it was noted the account bears a resemblance to the recent British raid on Lofoten Island.

The ship was reported to have entered the harbor and sent a landing party ashore, including Norwegian guides. They were said to have attacked a fish meal factory as well as to have machine gunned the home of a prominent Norwegian Nazi.

CHARLES E. HARRELL DIES.

Logansport, Ind., April 13 (Special).—Charles E. Harrell, 75, city councilman and former township trustee, died here today. Three sons survive, Don of Chicago, Fred of Cleveland, and Paul of Detroit.

A YOUNG ACTOR TELLS HIS STAND: NO FOREIGN WAR!

O. Z. Whitehead, young actor from the cast of "Life with Father," gave his first talk for America First yesterday since the gag attempt to silence him was lifted. He addressed a rally of the Hyde Park chapter of the America First committee in John Woolman hall, 3174 East 57th street.

O. Z. Whitehead.

Whitehead was prevented from filling an earlier America First speaking engagement by the local manager of the play, but the ban was removed by its New York manager.

"I speak for that generation which would willingly fight if it thought to do so would benefit this country," he declared. "This generation feels that to fight in foreign lands, seas, or skies for foreign causes is not its duty. . . . We are not afraid to die, but we do not want to die on foreign battlefields."

Meanwhile preparations went forward for the America First antiwar rally at 8 p. m. Thursday in the Chicago Arena, 400 East Erie street. Col. Charles A. Lindbergh will be the principal speaker.

PRINCES, CHIEFS RENEW FEALTY TO HAILE SELASSIE

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopa, April 11 [Delayed] (AP).—Thousands of Ethiopians, with their shamas wrapped about them, watched today as princes and chieftains prostrated themselves before Haile Selassie and protested their allegiance to the emperor at his headquarters about 100 miles from this capital city.

Haile Selassie.

Studies Approach of 6,000.

From time to time the emperor used field glasses to study the approach of some of the 6,000 men who were snaking their way across a plain hundreds of feet below the town.

The men scrambled up a hill to the town already crammed with armed warriors, rushed forward with rifles raised aloft, and threw themselves at Selassie's feet, crying that they were loyal to him and boasting of deeds done against the Italians.

"Each day they come to ask pardon," Selassie said. "I forgive them for I have great confidence even in the loyalty of those who once betrayed me."

When all 6,000 men had reached the town and prostrated themselves before the emperor, Coptic priests wearing yellow turbans and walking beneath red umbrellas held a religious service.

Trek Thru Sudan Desert.

War drums had throbbed thru this town yesterday when the news was spread that the emperor's heir, Crown Prince Asfa Wosan, had entered Ethiopa again.

The crown prince and his younger brother joined their father as a special mission of British officers journeyed toward Addis Ababa, which their troops recently captured from the Italians. The princes with a small suite trekked thru the blistering heat of the Sudan desert to reach their father's headquarters.

The British mission preserved tradition even while in the wild country. An old Etonian captain, who will administer the courts of Addis Ababa, had his native servant lay out fresh clothes for dinner after his evening bath in the Blue Nile river.

Piles of stores surrounded the adjoining camps of the British mission and the Ethiopian princes. The biggest case contained the emperor's ornate saddle on which he may soon ride into Addis Ababa.

YOUNG WIFE DIES IN CRASH.

Ann Arbor, Mich., April 13 [Special].—Mrs. Bernard J. Shanahan, 21 years old, a bride of less than a year, was fatally injured early today when an automobile struck a utility pole and overturned near here. Four other persons, including her husband, were injured, none seriously.

Axis Troops Continue African Advance

IRELAND TO PLAN EVACUATION OF WOMEN IN TOWNS

DUBLIN, Ireland, April 13 (AP).—Premier Eamon de Valera said in a broadcast today that plans for the evacuation of women and children from towns in Ireland must be completed without delay.

"Death and suffering we shall not be able to avoid if we are attacked," he said, "but we shall be certain that they will not be in vain by completing and perfecting the organization and training of our manhood in several national services. If we have to take up arms, we shall know the cause is just."

De Valera added that neutral Ireland had no desire to quarrel with any nation. His broadcast followed a martial display in tribute to the men who, during Easter week 25 years ago, took up arms to proclaim the Irish republic.

FOUND DEAD ON RAILROAD TRACKS.

TIME EXTENSION HAILED AS BOON TO CITY CHILDREN

Recreation Leaders Cite Health Benefits.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.

Another month of daylight saving time in the fall would be a boon to Chicago's children, recreational leaders and sports enthusiasts agreed yesterday.

They said that added hours of fall sunshine, which would be provided under an ordinance to extend daylight time to the last Sunday in October, would give the city's boys and girls extra time for the outdoor exercise that is so necessary for them, and time that now is denied them following the return to regular time at the end of September.

Statistics support this argument. Attendance at playground activities invariably has declined sharply, approaching the vanishing point in many sections, as soon as daylight time has been abandoned.

Decrease in Activities Shown.

Last September, when daylight time was in effect, 270,355 children attended the city's playgrounds. The following month, under regular time, the attendance was 113,541. A survey of playgrounds showed attendance drops ranging up to 70 per cent the first week of regular time last fall.

Attendance at five playgrounds, selected at random from city records, in the week before and the week just after the annual switch from daylight time is shown in the following table:

Playground	Sept. 22-28 total.	Sept. 29 Oct. 5 total.	Per cent decrease.
Bessemer	2,500	750	70
Harrison	1,038	930	10
Jackson	1,190	350	70
West Pullman	720	650	10
Davis	4,029	2,015	50
Totals	9,477	4,695	50

Walter Vaughan of the city bureau of parks, recreation, and aviation attributed the decrease to early darkness which forced thousands of youngsters to remain indoors despite the ideal autumn weather for which Chicago is famous.

Fear of Accidents Cited.

"When it gets dark and gloomy the children have no desire to go out and play," he said. "And in most cases their parents keep them at home rather than chance having them injured in accidents. Extending daylight time is an excellent idea. The fall in Chicago is a beautiful season, and the children should have a chance to enjoy it after being cooped up in school all day."

The proposal to extend daylight time also has been indorsed by Robert J. Dunham, president of the Park board, and V. K. Brown superintendent of recreation for the parks.

The majority of Chicago sportsmen also contend that the extra daylight would be beneficial to thousands of citizens who get little or no exercise despite the autumn season. Sportsmen said the added hour each day would be ample time for almost all forms of out-of-doors recreation, including boating, archery, softball and baseball, horseshoe pitching, tennis, and golf. There also would be time after work for families to visit park conservatories and zoölogical parks or for an hour in the open, gardening or picnicking, or strolling and enjoying Indian summer evenings.

All Activities Slacken.

City and park district records show that all forms of sports fall off as soon as regular time is restored. In 1940 softball and soccer dropped from 123,587 players in September to 30,062 in October, and golf showed a 50 per cent decline on the public links in the afternoon hours during last October.

The figures for golf are based on the comparatively small amount of play in the city. When the same percentages are applied to approximately 250,000 golfers in Chicagoland the large number, chiefly business men, who would benefit from the added opportunity to engage in this sport becomes apparent. Maynard G. [Scotty] Fessenden, president of the Chicago District Golf association, is one of the strongest advocates of the proposed extension of daylight time.

And daylight time, public officials agree, reduces crime, traffic and industrial accidents, and lighting costs.

A second public hearing on the proposed ordinance will be held tomorrow before the city council judiciary committee.

TURKEY WILL REMAIN OUT OF WAR UNTIL DIRECTLY MENACED

ANKARA, Turkey, April 13 (AP).—The government newspaper Ulus today reiterated that Turkey would remain peaceful so long as she is not menaced but that "we promise to none how long peace will remain in our hands."

"We do not intend to attack any one or sacrifice one iota of our land," Ulus continued. "Turkey will continue in peace so long as no one lays hands on her or makes demands upon her.

"But when there is any encroachment upon her land or independence Turkey will be loyal to her principles of freedom."

CHANNEL BATTLE ABOUT TO START, ITALIANS ASSERT

Say Axis Prepares for 'War's Last' Fight.

ROME, April 13 (AP).—Il Giornale d'Italia's correspondent, reporting from the English channel, said today that "the great spring battle of the channel is about to begin."

His dispatch said the Germans had thrown up an "offensive Siegfried line" there, from which they would launch what the axis expects to be the war's last battle. How, where, and when the invasion would be launched, he said, "the English will know shortly."

German air and submarine activity and the work of coastal fortifications were only "the first act," the correspondent explained, adding that the delay in the invasion of England was due to habitual German thoroness in preparing military campaigns.

The new channel line, he said, is outfitted for "mobile war and for defense of positions."

Bombers Sink 33,000 Tons.

New York, April 13 (AP).—The German radio broadcast a special high command announcement tonight which said 33,000 tons of ships were sunk by the German air force last night.

U-Boats Sink 75,000 Tons.

BERLIN, April 13.—(AP)—German submarines have sunk 15 more "enemy" merchant vessels in the North and Middle Atlantic, the German high command asserted today. More than 75,000 tons of shipping was said to have been sent to the bottom.

British Bomb Germany.

LONDON, April 13 (AP).—British bombers were reported today to have struck at industrial and supply targets in the Netherlands and northwestern Germany and at Nazi naval bases at Brest and Lorient, France. The air ministry said industrial targets at Leiden and gasoline stores at Flushing were bombed in forays over the Netherlands and that "targets north of the Ruhr valley in Germany" were attacked.

The RAF also raided submarine, seaplane, and "invasion" bases along the coast, the ministry said.

British fighter planes today downed a German bomber off the Cornish coast. The Germans dropped bombs on the East Anglian coast.

PAPERS CALL ON BRITAIN TO QUIT HIDING BAD NEWS

Demand It Let People Face War Realities.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 14 [Monday].—The dearth of official news regarding military operations both in the Balkans and in Libya was the object of biting criticism in this morning's Daily Herald and Daily Mail. Editorializing under the headline, "Ostriches," the Daily Herald said:

"The British nation wants to take the war seriously. It is prepared to recognize a blow as a blow . . . but the people do not find it easy to take a realistic view. They are constantly distracted by writers and speakers who seek superfluously to cheer them up.

Professional Optimists Hit.

"News from the Balkans is bad. News from Libya is bad. But, as happened last spring, the professional optimists have been only over eager to fill a vacuum. . . . In more than one Sunday newspaper yesterday emphasis was upon the 'increasing difficulties' which Hitler will face henceforth. The slogan 'We are bound to win' was once again trumpeted forth as if our victory would be an automatic process rather than the outcome of a long, desperate endeavor. . . .

"Our ostriches try to persuade themselves—and us—that every allied triumph is a major triumph, every enemy triumph a sideshow. . . . It was big business when we pushed the Italians out of Cyrenaica. It was the 'turning point in the war' when the new Jugo-Slav government defied Hitler. But the German thrust in Libya is a 'propaganda gesture'; German victories against the Jugo-Slavs are a trifle not in the least upsetting to those who 'view the war as a whole.'"

Grave "African Sideshow."

The Daily Mail stated:

"The news from North Africa makes grim reading. The German thrust in Libya has exceeded the country's worst expectations. The enemy has advanced a long way beyond Tobruk. They have passed that place and entered Bardia. Another battle has been fought on Egyptian territory at the frontier town of Solium.

"The Germans have covered an immense distance at great speed. . . . The capture of three of our generals in the desert shows the extent of surprise. . . . North Africa is no longer the sideshow it was thought to be in many quarters only a fortnight ago. It has grown into a large scale campaign of the gravest importance. . . .

"Again we appeal to the country to face realities. . . . It is common sense to realize that the British forces of North Africa and Greece are facing a colossal task and it is no service to them to pretend otherwise. A good deal of nonsense has been written and spoken about Germany's 'extended and vulnerable lines of communication.' The same thing was heard when they thrust deeply into France. . . .

"Germany in her Balkan campaign is working on interior lines from a central position. She has excellent roads and rail facilities. . . . This is the truth. Once it is firmly fixed in our minds, we shall be able to view the swaying fortunes of war with greater courage and equanimity than if we continue to be the prey of comfortable illusions."

Mexico Takes Over Yacht of Spanish Republicans

MEXICO CITY, April 13 (AP).—Dispatches from Acapulco said the Spanish mystery yacht Vita, which arrived at Tampico in 1939 with a cargo of gold, jewels, and other valuables belonging to the Spanish republican government, was expropriated today by the Mexican government.

Six French Officers Die in Air Crash in Algeria

ALGIERS, Algeria, April 13 (AP).—Commandant Henri Petijean-Roget, air liaison officer on Gen. Maxime Weygand's general staff in North Africa, and five other officers, were killed Thursday when a military transport crashed on a takeoff.

BISHOP ASSAILS THE "LYING" OF HIGH POLITICIANS

Warns Against Church Suppression.

Seattle, Wash., April 13 (AP).—The Most Rev. Gerald Shaughnessy, Catholic bishop of Seattle, assailed certain American public figures today, without mentioning their names, in an Easter sermon at pontifical mass in St. James cathedral.

"Recently we witnessed an exciting national campaign and election in which specific statements were made and most solemn pledges given to our country, supposedly on the word of honor of a Christian gentleman," he said.

"But a few days ago, when this person, whose later action belied his promises, was taxed with his own words, he lightly dismissed the subject with the revealing words: 'That was but campaign oratory.'

"Lying Is Enthroned."

"Lying is thus enthroned before us as a public god and a means to which apparently our leaders, or would-be leaders, may resort with impunity."

[The incident to which Bishop Shaughnessy apparently referred occurred Feb. 12 while Wendell Willkie, defeated Republican Presidential nominee, was testifying before the senate foreign relations committee.]

The bishop also said a serious threat to the nation had been made in the recommendation put forth by "one of the assistant attorney generals, in charge of antitrust prosecutions."

"Suppression" of Churches.

"By a strange quirk of fate and a most peculiar mentality," the bishop added, "he has publicly advocated that, in what is termed the present emergency, all the churches of the United States be, in effect, suppressed and in their place there be set up some invention of the government that might perhaps be termed a state church."

At another point in his sermon, Bishop Shaughnessy assailed what he termed possible conscription of labor, capital, and women. Such moves, he said, "are the very evils that we decry thruout the world and which we ourselves would now madly embrace as the cure for home conditions."

KILLED BY TRAIN IN PARK RIDGE.

Hindsight and Foresight—

With This Help He Kept His Insurance

Here is a story, sent to me by an agent in a Hudson River Valley city, which shows what can be done to help people in difficulty to keep their life insurance.

This agent tells how a Mr. Franklin came to him two years ago to arrange for a loan on his policy. Mr. Franklin had paid his premiums on the dot for twelve years, but lately he'd been having trouble.

It was the usual story—daughter's teeth being straightened, wife in hospital, bills piling up. The agent knew, of course, that a loan is often the first step in losing a policy—but he knew, too, that in just such emergencies as this, life insurance could render a great service and still be saved.

A year passed, Mrs. Franklin left the hospital, and the agent persuaded her husband to begin small payments on the loan. Then, suddenly, his father died, his mother came to live with them—and on top of that, he had a salary cut.

But he didn't drop his policy. He went over his financial setup with the agent, together they worked out a way of maintaining small regular payments on the loan, and he kept the insurance which had already helped him through one time of emergency.

* * *

The proportion of people who keep up their life insurance is higher today than ever before. This cheering improvement is partly due to better times. It is also due in large part to the better and better job of conservation on the part of agents—in helping their clients break the chain of circumstances which leads to the termination of a policy.

RUSS-JAP PACT CALLED BLOW TO F. D. R. DIPLOMACY

Welles, undersecretary of state, drew the Russian ambassador, Constantine A. Oumansky, into a series of conversations out of which came a series of concessions by the United States to the soviets by way of cultivating Stalin's good will.

"Moral Embargoes" Lifted.

Thus, the United States lifted the moral embargo on the export of airplanes to the soviets, which had been imposed when Stalin's aircraft bombed the defenseless civilian population of Finland. Also the embargo on the exportation of machine tools was lifted in favor of Russia, altho it was suspected that Germany was their eventual destination. Also, the administration winked at Russia's importation of vast quantities of American gasoline, cotton, copper, and other goods which there was good reason to believe were headed for Germany.

The only concession Russia made was permission to the United States to reopen a consulate general at Vladivostok. Mr. Roosevelt suffered a rude awakening when Bulgaria surrendered to Germany. He had relied on Russia to bolster Bulgarian morale against the demands of Hitler. But Stalin didn't lift a finger—not till it was all over, when he chided Bulgaria for surrendering.

Welles Becomes Cool.

The incident had suggested to Mr. Roosevelt, however, that he was being played for a sucker by comrade Stalin. The next time that Ambassador Oumansky appeared at the state department he found Mr. Welles at his frigid best. Mr. Oumansky was looking for more concessions but he didn't get them. He went away muttering something about breach of good faith.

Mr. Welles melted a few weeks later, however, when Russia informed Turkey that she would be neutral if Turkey got into the war. Mr. Welles lauded Russia rather effusively for that. More recently Russia received a pat of official American approval for encouraging Jugo-Slavia's resistance to the axis. Now it appears, however, that all these blandishments were in vain so far as the project to align Russia against Japan is concerned.

The outflanking of Mr. Roosevelt by the Japanese foreign minister, Yosuke Matsuoka, in the negotiations at Moscow marks another stage in the chess game of power politics Mr. Roosevelt is playing in the Pacific.

No sooner had Matsuoka departed for Moscow, Berlin, and Rome to take counsel on Japan's course in the Far East than Mr. Roosevelt ordered two squadrons, aggregating 13 American warships, into the South Pacific. The squadrons visited Australia and New Zealand on what was described by the administration as a "good will tour." Inasmuch as the good will of these British dominions needs no cultivation by America, the move was recognized as a warning to Japan of probable reënforcement of the British with the American navy if Japan should attack Singapore.

Whereabouts a Mystery.

The navy department stated at the time that the 13 warships would return to their base at Honolulu after the "good will tour," but after they left Australia and New Zealand the department refused to state where they were. They might be in the vicinity of Singapore or the Dutch East Indies awaiting eventualities.

In the meantime there have been further indications that Mr. Roosevelt intends to send our navy to the support of the British if Japan attacks Singapore.

Attending Church

Washington, D. C., April 13 (AP).—President Roosevelt, attending Easter service at St. Thomas' Episcopal church, heard a prayer today for the defeat of "tyranny and aggression" and for the United States to have "vision to see and courage to do whatever is right" in a time of world crisis.

It was after communion—the President was the first to receive it—that the rector, the Rev. Howard Wilkinson gave his prayer "That peace with righteousness and justice may be established for the sake of all mankind."

St. Thomas' was crowded to standing room during the service, and the streets outside were lined with people—many a part of the capital's greatest influx of tourists.

EASTER HAILED AT JERUSALEM GARDEN OF TOMB

PALESTINE, Jerusalem, April 13.—Members of the Anglican community and other Protestants at dawn today attended an Easter ceremonial at the so-called Garden of the Tomb. This tomb, discovered by the late Gen. Charles Gordon of the British army, is believed by some to have been the resting place of Christ after the crucifixion. It lies outside the walls of the city.

Under warm sunshine, numerous worshipers participated in the various services as bells pealed over the Holy city.

While Anglicans attended matins at St. George's cathedral or Christ church, inside the walled old city, the Roman Catholic patriarch officiated at the pontifical mass at the silver altar erected on the spot of the holy sepulchre.

Milk Mixture For Stomach Ulcer Pains

A recent medical discovery now being used by doctors and hospitals everywhere has proven unusually successful in the treatment of stomach ulcer pains caused from excess acid. It is a harmless preparation yet so effective that in many cases the pains of stomach ulcers disappear almost immediately after it is used. Also recommended for gas pains, indigestion and heartburn due to hyperacidity. Sufferers may now try this at home by obtaining a bottle of Lurin from their druggist. Lurin contains this new discovery in its purest form. Easy to take. Just mix two teaspoonfuls in a half glass of milk. Costs but little and sold under an absolute guarantee that it must satisfy or money refunded. Lurin for sale by Walgreen, Stineway, Service, Fay and drug stores everywhere.

JAPANESE HAIL NEUTRALITY PACT WITH RUSSIANS

Each Pledges to Remain Out of Other's War.

The pact "guarantees peaceful and friendly relations" between the two powers.

The pact is effective for five years and is renewable for an additional five year term unless one side denounces it a year before expiration of the first period.

Formal Exchange in Tokio.

It is to be ratified as quickly as possible and the formal exchange of ratification documents is to take place in Tokio.

The document was signed by Japan's touring foreign minister, Yosuke Matsuoka, and Tokio's envoy to Moscow, Yoshitosugu Tatekawa, and the soviet premier-foreign commissar, Vyacheslav Molotov, at the Kremlin at 2:30 p. m. [5:30 a. m. Chicago time].

Matsuoka, who had spent nearly a week in Moscow in secret negotiations, took the trans-Siberian express for Tokio at 5:55 p. m. Josef Stalin personally saw him off at the train, a high compliment to Matsuoka.

Matsuoka, for whom the pact was a signal of triumph, arrived here on March 23 for a one day stay and saw Molotov in the presence of Stalin. He continued his journey for axis conferences in Berlin and Rome, where he saw Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini.

Returning from Berlin and Rome last Monday, he saw Molotov four more times, including a conference yesterday in which Stalin again engaged.

Four Articles of Pact.

The four articles of the pact were as follows:

ARTICLE 1. Both contracting parties undertake to maintain peaceful relations between them and mutually respect the territorial integrity and inviolability of the other contracting party.

ARTICLE 2. Should one of the contracting parties become the object of hostilities on the part of one or several third powers, the other contracting party will observe neutrality thruout the duration of the conflict.

ARTICLE 3. The present pact comes into force from the day of its ratification by both contracting parties and remains valid for five years. In case neither of the contracting parties denounces the pact one year before expiration of the term, it will be considered automatically prolonged for the next five years.

ARTICLE 4. The present pact is subject to ratification as soon as possible. Instruments of ratification shall be exchanged in Tokio also as soon as possible.

[While Russia's relations with Japan apparently were clarified by the pact, the soviet's attitude toward events in Europe, and particularly the Balkans, was far from clear.]

German Envoy Goes Home.

German Ambassador Count Friedrich Werner von der Schulenburg and Slovak Minister Franz Tiso left tonight for consultations with their governments in Berlin and Bratislava.

Slovakia is a part of the German-protected Czecho-Slovakia of which Hungary also got a slice in Carpatho-Ukraine [Ruthenia].

[The pact laid the Japanese bugaboo in the east should Stalin have any intention of making a stiffer stand against the Germans in the Balkans. It also gave him assurances of peace in the east should the Germans really launch a drive at the soviet's Ukrainian wheat and oil lands, a danger which British Prime Minister Churchill recently warned. The fate of China and the aid she has been receiving from Russia was believed in the balance.]

While Russia was putting the seals to her nonaggression pact in the east, the official press gave prominent display to a foreign office communique reproving Hungary for invading a Slav nation, Jugo-Slavia.

"Considered especially significant," was the foreign office's reference to Hungary's own national minorities and the danger to Hungary should she become involved in trouble.

[Carpatho-Ukraine is largely inhabited by a people kindred to Russia's Ukrainians.]

The rebuke to Hungary was similar but more outspoken than the one administered to Bulgaria six weeks ago for permitting German troops to enter the country.

Tell of Serb Friendship.

The papers also gave an extensive account of a broadcast by the Jugo-Slav premier, Gen. Dusan Simovitch, in which he was reported to have stressed the "friendship between Jugo-Slavia and the U. S. S. R."

These expressions of the attitude of the soviet toward events in the Balkans, all of which, it has been emphasized are in the interest of peace, recently have been reinforced by two other actions: Reaffirmation of an accord of friendship and nonaggression with Turkey and—on the eve of the German invasion—completion of a treaty of friendship and nonaggression with Jugo-Slavia.

Nazis Cite U. S. Effect.

BERLIN, April 13 (AP).—In the opinion of authorized German quarters the new Japanese-soviet Russian neutrality pact frees Japan's hands in the far east.

With nothing to fear from Russia, Japan evidently is greatly strengthened in her relations toward the United States and Britain in the orient, German observers said.

"News of the pact, of course, is received with deepest satisfaction here," a spokesman said.

The agreement, in the German view, should have a sobering influence on elements in the United States which it is said here are trying to push American foreign policy into deep international waters.

It was stated that so far as Germany is concerned the pact will have the most important bearing on the establishment of new orders in Europe and Asia. Russia, it was added, has been eliminated as a political question mark.

There was every indication here the pact was arranged with full knowledge and approval of Germany. Japanese Foreign Minister Matsuoka, it was noted, made his deal with Stalin immediately after exhaustive talks in Berlin and Rome.

Reds and Japan Exchange Pledges

In a neutrality pact signed by Russia and Japan, Russia agreed to respect the territorial integrity of Japan's puppet state, Manchukuo, and Japan promised to respect the status of Moscow-dominated Outer Mongolian Peoples republic.

Briton to Talk Tomorrow at Opening of Relief Drive

Col. Rex Benson, British military attaché in the embassy in Washington, D. C., and Clarence Randall, vice president of the Inland Steel company, will be principal speakers tomorrow night at the formal opening of the British War Relief society's drive for a million dollars in Illinois. The dinner will be held in the Palmer house and 400 persons are expected to attend.

AUTO VICTIM, 70, DIES; HIT AND RUN DRIVER IS BLAMED

Charles Herbst, 70 years old, believed to have been the victim of a hit and run driver, was found fatally injured early yesterday in the 6500 block of South Western avenue. Herbst, a butcher who lived at 6644 South Oakley avenue, died in Holy Cross hospital.

Herman L. Dahlke, 54, of 5904 Leonard avenue, a letter carrier, was killed last night when he was struck by an automobile and thrown under a surface lines bus at Elston and Miltimore avenues. The car was driven by Stephen Grek of Prairie View, Lake county.

Mrs. Minnie Rodkin, 68, of 6646 Stony Island avenue, died in El Centro, Cal., of injuries suffered in an automobile collision.

An unidentified man, about 55, was killed last night by an automobile in front of 1820 Roosevelt road. The driver was William Battista, 2165 De Kalb street, who said he is a senior clerk in the county assessor's office.

A Chicagoan identified only as John Donohue, 30, died in Hartford, Wis., of injuries suffered in an automobile collision.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday, 230 persons had been killed in automobile accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 174 were killed in Chicago, where 5,961 were injured in the same period.

MARY PARKER, 79, PLAYWRIGHT AND ACTRESS, IS DEAD

Mrs. Mary Moncure Parker, formerly well known Chicago actress and playwright, died in Cleveland, O., yesterday. She was 79 years old. Mrs. Parker was the widow of William R. Parker, former clerk of the Cook county Criminal court and member of the Chicago Board of Trade.

Mrs. Parker had acted in her own plays in New York and at the old Whitney Opera house in Chicago. For a time she read her monologs over Columbia Broadcasting system networks. She had resided in New York and Cleveland in recent years. A son, the late Gilman Moncure Parker, was formerly a newspaper man in Chicago and New York.

BAR DEADLIER WAR WEAPONS, POPE PIUS ASKS

Pontiff Tells What Just Peace Should Be.

VATICAN CITY, April 13 (AP).—Pope Pius XII. besought the belligerent nations in an Easter Sunday message today to refrain from using "still more homicidal instruments of warfare," and urged all Catholics to redouble their prayers for an early, universal and just peace.

He also urged upon "the powers occupying territories during the war" that they deal "justly, humanely and providently" with the peoples under their domination.

"Prudent and helpful humanitarianism is the commendation and boast of wise generals," he observed. "And the treatment of prisoners and civilians in occupied areas is the surest indication and proof of the civilization of individuals and nations.

"But above all remember that upon the manner in which you deal with those whom the fortunes of war put in your hands may depend the blessing or curse of God upon your own fatherland."

Talk Broadcast to World.

The pontiff spoke for 20 minutes, beginning at 1:03 p. m. from his private library after canceling his customary Easter Sunday appearance on St. Peter's loggia for delivery of the Easter blessing. The benediction, like the message, was broadcast over the Vatican City radio. Afterward, priests read translations of the message in French, English, Spanish, Portuguese, German, Polish, Dutch, and Hungarian.

The pope characterized the war as a "ruthless struggle," which at times "can be described only as atrocious," as he urged all belligerents to "show some feeling of charity for the sufferings of civilian populations, for defenseless women and children, for the sick and aged, all of whom are often exposed to greater and more widespread perils of war than those faced by soldiers at the fronts."

The introduction of more deadly weapons, he said, "inevitably results in their retaliatory use, often with greater violence by the enemy."

"If already we must lament the fact that the limits of legitimate warfare have been repeatedly exceeded, would not the more widespread use of increasingly barbarous offensive weapons soon transform war into unspeakable horror?" he asked.

Tells What Peace Should Be.

His call for prayers for peace said it should be a peace not based "upon the oppression and destruction of peoples but peace which, while guaranteeing the honor of all nations, will satisfy their vital needs and insure the legitimate rights of all.

The Pope then spoke of his own efforts to "forestall or shorten the conflict, to humanize the methods of war, to alleviate suffering and to bring assistance and comfort to the victims of war."

"But we are saddened to note," he continued, "that there seems to be as yet little likelihood of an approximate realization of peace that will be just, in accordance with human and Christian norms."

Thereupon he urged that prayers be offered with "ever increasing meaning and fervor that a new spirit may take root and develop in all peoples" and especially among those in power.

This spirit, he said, would be ready to make mutual sacrifices and rebuild the world so that a high sense of moral sincerity would prevail which "would repudiate every double standard of morality and justice for the great and the small or for the strong and the weak."

War Sufferers Comforted.

He sought to comfort the homeless, the refugees and the prisoners and reminded them that "prosperity and adversity are part and parcel of man's earthly existence."

"We share with you your anguish and suffering," the Pope said. "If it is not allowed us, as we would honestly desire, to take upon ourselves the burden of your sorrows, may our paternal and cordial sympathy serve as the balm which will temper the bitterness of your misfortune with today's greeting of the alleluia, the hymn of Christ's triumph over earthly martyrdom, the blossome of the olive tree of Gethsemane flourishing in the precious hope of resurrection and of the new and eternal life in which there will be neither sorrors or struggles."

EDWARD JAN FINDER.

San Francisco, Cal., April 13 (AP).—Edward Jan Finder "got on the boat at Kobe to mail a letter and just didn't get off" until the liner President Taft docked at San Francisco.

And that's how the 12 year old boy, a native of Bielsko, Poland, happened to be a guest at the immigration station here today.

His mother, Mrs. Emmy Finder of New York City, was waiting at the customs barrier with a passport she had obtained for the boy at the Polish consulate in New York, but, as she lacked the necessary United States visa, he was unable to join her.

Perhaps he will be able to do so tomorrow after an immigration board meets to consider his case.

U. OF C. SETS UP INSTITUTE FOR MILITARY STUDY

Dr. Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, announced yesterday the establishment of an Institute of Military Studies, headed by Arthur L. H. Rubin, military educational expert. Courses in basic military training and civilian defense problems and lectures on current military strategy will be offered to university students and all male citizens 18 to 45 years old living in the Chicago area.

A week-end course in basic military training also will be offered students this summer at Mill Road farm, Lake Forest, the 480 acre estate donated the university two years ago. The course will include army organization, map work, elementary tactics, rifle marksmanship, infantry drill regulations, communications, motor convoy movements, and a tactical exercise.

Dr. Hugh M. Cole, university historian, and Professors Albert Lepawsky, Quincy Wright, and Max Rheinstein will conduct the various courses. Hutchins said 500 men already are participating in courses now embraced in the institute.

20,000 TO RETURN TO WORK TODAY AT FORD PLANT

Detroit, Mich., April 13 [Special].—The huge River Rouge plant of the Ford Motor company will resume operations tomorrow after a shutdown of 11 days caused by a strike of the United Automobile Workers of America [CIO]. The strike was marked by violence and sabotage of plant machinery.

Only 20,000 of the 85,000 persons normally employed will be back in the shops tomorrow. Another 5,000 or 6,000 will return Tuesday. The forces will be increased daily, but it will be 10 days or two weeks before all 85,000 are back at work. One reason for this delay is the normal result of a long shutdown and part presumably is due to the fact that much of the machinery was damaged by the strikers.

No trouble is expected in the morning. All but 40 state police have left the plant. On the eve of the return to work, John L. Murphy, Ford organizer for the American Federation of Labor, declared that the CIO had "settled its lawless strike without gain to the workers, but a loss to them of $900,000 a day in wages."

A NOEL COWARD WAR MYSTERY—THE FINAL ACT

Playwright Home; Bares Service for Britain.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 13.—What has kept Noel Coward, the playwright, out of this country almost continuously since the outbreak of the war has been a recurrent topic here in the last 18 months. Speculation about the purpose of his wanderings in America, China, Australia, and other parts of the world has exercised one newspaper columnist after another. Questions have even been asked in parliament concerning his activities abroad.

Noel Coward.

The more caustic of his critics accused him of deserting the mother country to have a good time in brighter places. Others made puns on his name.

Now Noel Coward is in London again. In an interview on the front page of today's Sunday Dispatch he declared he has been carrying out important government assignments.

Tells of His Service.

Headlined "The Complete Reply to My Critics," the article reveals that even before the war Coward was arranging the installation of talking movie apparatus on all surface ships of the royal navy, a job he was asked to undertake by Lord Louis Mountbatten, personal naval aid of King George VI.

Upon the outbreak of the war, Coward related, he was asked by the government to run a liaison propaganda office in Paris with Andre Maurois [Andrew Herzog, French novelist and essayist].

"To me," he said, "French is a second mother tongue. I speak it as well as my own. It was considered ill advised by my superiors to say what I was doing in Paris.

"Four days after the declaration of war I flew to Paris in an RAF plane. Every three weeks I flew back to England. My job was reasonably important and had to be given as little publicity as possible. The press published a story that I had been seen in Paris in a naval uniform. That is untrue. I have been working for England from the first day of the war and intend to do so until the last day or beyond, but I do not need a uniform to work in."

Home, He Tells All.

In April, last year, Coward said, he obtained a six week's leave to visit America to attend to business interests. For the preceding eight months there had been no money coming in, he said. While he was in Hollywood France fell and Coward returned to England for seven weeks.

Finally, he said, "Duff Cooper asked me if I would go back to America to see Lord Lothian and discuss various questions with him. I am sorry I cannot tell you what the questions were. When I got to America, Lothian asked me to visit several key cities in the United States and to tell him unofficially my impressions.

"It was at this time that questions arose in commons about what I was doing out of the country and why I was allowed to take money from the country. In fact, I left England with 10 pounds [$40], just as every one else has to do, and a ministry of information ticket." [Alfred Duff Cooper is minister of information. The late Lord Lothian then was Britain's ambassador in Washington, D. C.]

After he had reported to Lord Lothian, Coward said, he intended to return to England but Richard G. Casey, Australian minister to the United States, asked him to go to Australia to help raise money for war charities.

"I went to Australia for seven weeks," he added, "and in that time gave two broadcasts, a dozen entertainments weekly, and at least 1,400 handshakes daily. We raised 10,000 pounds for the Australian Red Cross."

On a similar mission of three weeks to New Zealand, he said, he raised 3,000 pounds for war funds.

Coward, who is 41, said he is ready for more work if the government calls on him.

Marriage Sticks

Hugh Beaumont and his bride, the former Kathryn Adams.

Hollywood, Cal., April 13 (AP).—Hugh Beaumont, 26 years old, and Kathryn Adams, 20, were married today for the second time in two weeks. This time it was the real thing. The first was for a movie in which both played. Only relatives and close friends attended today's ceremony. Miss Adams is the former Kathryn Elizabeth Hohn of New Ulm, Minn. Beaumont came to the movies from New Orleans and Chattanooga, Tenn. They plan a honeymoon trip to Minnesota in the summer.

ICKES LAMBASTS AMERICA FIRST AND ITS BACKERS

Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior, assailed the America First committee and its purposes last night. He spoke at a dinner sponsored by the Jewish National Workers' Alliance of America at 32 West Randolph street. The dinner was held for the benefit of the Jewish National fund.

Ickes singled out Col. Charles A. Lindbergh for his bitterest denunciation. He called Lindbergh the "No. 1 Nazi fellow traveler" in the United States and declared him to be "the first American to raise aloft the standard of pro-Nazism," and "the proud possessor of a Nazi decoration which has already been well earned."

Raps Anne Lindbergh's Book.

Lindbergh's wife, the former Anne Morrow, was also included in Ickes' attack for her book, "The Wave of the Future," which he described as "the bible of every American Nazi, Fascist, Bundist, and appeaser." He referred to Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh as "this pair of fellow travelers and appeasers."

Gen. Robert E. Wood, national chairman of the America First committee, was depicted by Ickes as "apparently a fellow traveler."

Ickes said the America First committee should be renamed "the America Next" committee. He asserted that the committee attracts "antidemocrats, appeasers, labor baiters, and anti-Semites" and that "Hitler is enthusiastic about it."

Hits Committee Backers.

Among the active supporters of the committee, said Ickes, are Gen. Hugh Johnson, Hanford MacNider, Henry Ford, and Ernest Weir. He added, "It would be difficult to find a collection of worse reactionaries than these."

Ickes charged that a recent editorial published by THE TRIBUNE had been "hailed with joy both in Berlin and Rome, and with good reason."

The secretary told his audience that their hope for a Jewish homeland will be crushed if Hitler wins. America is "still in the first phase of the deadly conflict," he added.

The dinner was attended by more than 1,000 guests. Rabbi Morton M. Berman of Temple Isaiah Israel, president of the Jewish National Fund, presided. Judge Harry M. Fisher and Dr. Henry Epstein also spoke.

SENATOR BARKLEY SPEAKS.

New York, April 13 (AP).—Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley told a banquet of the National Labor Committee for Palestine tonight that the American people are determined that "a new Pharoah who has risen shall not enslave mankind."

The following message from President Roosevelt was read:

"I trust this celebration will inspire all who participate with a new determination to exemplify in twentieth century terms the highest teachings of the ancient culture of Israel."

SEIZE 2 ROBBER SUSPECTS AFTER HOLDUP, CRASH

Two men were seized by police as alleged robbers yesterday following a holdup and an automobile accident on the west side. The prisoners are Robert Fahnestock, 21 years old, 1800 Monroe street, and Cecil White, 32, of 1842 Warren boulevard. Miss Grace Williams, 28, of the Monroe street address, also was arrested.

Police said that Fahnestock and White held up Samuel Cesario, 32, of 2912 Lexington street, and Nicholas Vertucci, 24, of 920 South Western avenue, at Adams street and Damen avenue, took $3, and drove off in Cesario's car.

A few minutes later, according to police, the pair crashed the stolen car into another machine at Taylor and Wood streets. Between the robbery and the crash, police said, White and Fahnestock picked up Miss Williams. All three were injured.

TATTOO MARKED MYSTERY TORSO FOUND AT JOLIET

The torso of a man believed to have been from 40 to 50 years old was found in the Illinois waterway near the government moorings at Joliet yesterday. Deputy Coroner Willard Blood of Will county said he was unable to determine whether the man had been murdered and dismembered, or had fallen into the water and been struck by a boat propeller. An anchor and shield and the number, "1310," were tattooed on an arm.

ALASKAN BLASTS PROPAGANDA BY SECRETARY ICKES

BY GEORGE TAGGE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

JUNEAU, Alaska, April 13.—Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes and other federal bureaucrats have laid a barrage of pseudoscientific propaganda to gain dictatorial control of Alaska, J. A. Hellenthal, attorney and student of conservation for 40 years, charged today.

Hellenthal asserted that the objects of this control are to tie up Alaska's natural resources in order to keep them out of competition, and to provide a playground for the idle rich. His views have gained wide circulation in the territory.

Crime Against Timber.

Hellenthal declared that the vast forest reserves were created because hundreds of coal claims had been located in Alaska, thus cutting off access to the coal. Twenty thousand Alaskans left the territory as a result, he said.

He then charged that the crime being committed against Alaskan timber is more serious than in the case of coal, for millions of board feet are rotting on the stem. It has been estimated that Alaskan forests could supply one-third of the news pulp paper requirements of the United States.

Playground for Rich.

"This tremendous asset is being wasted under the name of conservation," the Alaskan said. "Leasing rights are offered but it is impossible to get a lease you can operate under. Congress must prescribe the exact conditions under which pulp and paper making can be carried on for a definite period of not less than 25 years. Without this, no one would be warranted in making the necessary investment. With it we might get what Alaska needs—permanent year round industry.

"Our absentee officials are going the limit to make Alaska the playground of the idle rich. When gold mines have been taxed out of existence and the fisheries regulated out of existence, the goal of the absentee rulers will have been reached.

"Alaska will be a perfect bear pasture, ribboned with roads so that the idle rich can hunt the bears without leaving the seats of their automobiles."

Save Our Republic

THE REPUBLIC MEETS ITS CAESAR.

Leon Henderson has been made head of the newly established Office of Price Administration and Civilian Supply. He takes over a section of the national defense advisory commission, a sort of hair-do organization, which Miss Harriet Elliott had in charge. The new administrator is directed by Mr. Roosevelt "to take all lawful steps necessary or appropriate" to accomplish certain stated purposes.

One is to prevent price spiraling, increased cost of living, profiteering, and inflation. The second is to prevent speculative accumulation, withholding, and hoarding. The third is to stimulate the provision of supply in commodities required for civilian use. The fourth is to provide for the equitable distribution of such supplies as are not needed by the armed forces and to satisfy competing civilian demands.

In the program of this new agency you will find the complete apparatus of what we condemn as the totalitarian state. It presents that state in its most direct relation to the citizen in his day to day life, and to the producer of goods as well as the consumer. It assumes the prospective if not present failure of the system of independent economy which has governed the flow of goods from their source to their uses. The revolutionary economists have recognized this as the chief distinction between a free economy, which means a free people, and a planned economy, which means an obedient and controled people.

The justification for it which will be alleged is that a free price economy confronted with the extraordinary conditions which have been forced upon this country will run wild and getting out of hand bring about the disastrous consequences latent in debt, deficits, and the dislocations caused by war.

If the citizen will examine the power conferred upon Mr. Henderson and his agency—and nobody is more willing to exercise them than Mr. Henderson—he will find within contemplation such governmental acts as the entry of supply depots, stores, and homes for the search of supplies made contraband under the new authority. "Speculative accumulation" is a vague phrase. "Hoarding" is simpler. A German housewife has known what it might cost her if she were found in possession of too much butter or too many eggs. Her pantry shelves might contain evidence of her guilt against the state. The softer voice of authority will tell you that no such action will be needed, but the American republic is now organized to permit it.

When reference is made to competing civilian demands it is to be understood that in any community there may be more people seeking a food commodity than the markets offer. There may be a greater demand for eggs than the supply offered. Where a free price system prevails the relation between supply and demand automatically adjusts itself. As the price rises the demand decreases.

When the government undertakes "to provide for equitable distribution among competing civilian demands" the only method is the ration card. That in every country which has adopted the system requires the purchaser to stand in line waiting his turn at the counter. For years Russians have known what it was to wait for hours and find that the supply was exhausted before they could enter the shop. Again the softer, hushed voices of authority will tell you that the American people will not be brought to such an extreme, but authority has provided for just such a method and we have yet to see an unwillingness to exercise any power granted an administrator.

We find, furthermore, in Mr. Henderson's new agency the Nazi doctrine that the army comes first. No one will quarrel with the idea that the army must be completely supplied. One may raise the eyebrows at the declared principle that there shall be distributed to the civilian population only that residue which the army does not require.

It is a new experience for the people of this country to be told that with all their vast resources only a residue of essential commodities will be left for civilian use. Even if that residue is entirely adequate, it's a new idea that it may not be and that if it is not the civilian will have to take the consequences. The idea may be contemplated with a view of the administration's eight-year endeavor to cut down the production of foodstuffs in a rich country, to pay producers not to produce, and to take surpluses off their hands and seal them up in storage.

The government which discouraged production now talks of residues and provides for domiciliary visitation to inspect larders and of cards to put people on slim rations.

The most resourceful country in the world has been given the apparatus of a country which cannot produce enough to eat or wear and which to carry out the military ambitions of its dictatorial rulers has made the civilian population pull in the belt and find nourishment where no nourishment is.

The New Deal comes very close to its goal in the authority vested in Mr. Henderson under the direct management of Mr. Roosevelt. The citizens at last are in the groove but they aren't going to swing it. They will learn the goosestep.

VITAMINED BASEBALL.

Stringer, the fancy shortstop; Novikoff, the mad Russian, and the string of Yankee victories have provided some of the distinguishing features of the 1941 baseball training camps. Another development, possibly more remarkable than any of these, was the introduction of doses of vitamin B-1 into baseball players' daily diet. First came word from Florida that Branch Rickey had been feeding the synthetic food to the successors of the gashouse gang, and then one team after another followed suit.

The sports public has become vitamin minded. When the New York Rangers lost a chance at the Stanley hockey cup a story attributed their failure to a vitamin deficiency. From now on if a player does a casey at the bat his strikeout will be attributed to something he didn't eat. If any player should bat 400 his vitamin intake will be a matter of great public interest.

Vitamins, as we of the medical laity get it, are beneficial ingredients found in foods not eaten regularly or in the right quantities by some people. The person who eats what he ought to gets his vitamins. The one who doesn't may be an easy mark for some terrible bacteria or virus. So the scientists concocted some pills which have in them what you miss when you don't get the right victuals.

Take butter, for example. You won't fail to take butter if you recall what once happened to the Danes. They make the best butter there is, or used to, and they have plenty of it, or formerly did. At the start of the first world war the Germans offered such fancy prices for Danish butter that the Danes felt that it was too valuable to eat. Eye trouble at once developed all over the country, and blindness would have resulted for many if they hadn't been persuaded to eat more of their own product. A few years ago a study among some Boston university students disclosed that 162 of them had subnormal darkness adaptation, so that they couldn't see to drive automobiles at night. After the students were fed a diet rich in vitamin A, which is found most prominently in butter, their sight was restored. Lack of an adequate amount of vitamin A may also result in respiratory diseases.

Ulysses Grant first distinguished himself in the Mexican war by feeding vitamin C to soldiers who lay sick with scurvy. The soldiers got well and we got Texas. Lemons were the source of Grant's vitamin C. There are many other sources of this ingredient, prominently the other citrus fruits and fresh vegetables. Scurvy isn't the only possible consequence of a vitamin C deficiency. In the Virgin Islands the birth rate was low until the United States government introduced tomatoes as a commercial product. The addition of vitamin C to the islanders' diet was followed by a substantial increase in the birth rate.

Vitamin B is not one, but a brood, the members of which are designated as B-1, B-2, etc. Among vitamin deficiencies that of one or more of the B's is commonest. Lacking enough of B-1 you might get beriberi, which is a very bad disease, indeed, leading sometimes to death via paralysis. Dr. Christian Ejikman, the Dutch scientist, who shared the Nobel prize in 1929, noticed that the chickens in Java which were fed polished rice exclusively acted as tho they had beriberi. He discovered that when the rice hulls were thrown into the chicken yard along with the rice the chickens got well. Adding B-1 found in the roughage of grains was found to bring relief to humans, too. Beriberi is still common in the orient, and about two months ago THE TRIBUNE reported a shipment of 100,000 synthetic vitamin B-1 capsules for use in Chinese hospitals in the treatment of the disease.

Only B-1 tablets have so far been reported as being given to baseball players. The managers have said that they thought that some of the players had something wrong with them, but none has come down with beriberi. There must be another explanation. An extra amount of this vitamin has been found to stimulate the nervous system. British health authorities last year instructed all millers to add the vitamin to white flour to maintain the spirit of the English people under the strain of the air attacks. Thus the vitamin treatment of the diamond boys may not lead to better play, but to better spirit. They will be able to take their defeats in lighter heart. Mr. Wrigley has criticized some former Cub teams for being too complacent about being beaten. Maybe the players had been taking B-1 on their own motion and got too much of it.

ANOTHER HOUR FOR THE OCTOBER DAY.

Of all the months of the year October is the natural for daylight saving. The equinox has been passed and the days are shortening. If our usual luck holds out, we enter the most dependable season of the year for this climate in September and it carries thru October. The earlier sundown with the clock at central standard time drops a curtain too quickly upon the outdoors at their best.

In the spring we take a chance that the extra hour of daylight can be used to good advantage. The chance is worth taking, and opposition to saving the hour has about died out. People might say that in midsummer the day has enough of the sun without an arrangement which clocks his going down an hour later. When he has been a bit too glowing the cool of the evening could be awaited with impatience. But September and October have everything to grace the added hour. If it were given at no other time, October would justify it.

SUBURBAN TREND.

[Indianapolis News.]

The census bureau's report that Indianapolis people are moving to the suburbs is not surprising. One census tract in the eastern part of the city gained 69.3 per cent between 1930 and 1940. The greatest loss was 14.2 per cent in a tract near the center of the city. The greatest proportion of vacant dwellings was found near the congested district and immediately north of it.

During the last decade business has been pressing deeper into the older residential districts not far from the downtown section. Many landmarks have been converted into business property or razed to avoid the payment of high taxes. Meanwhile, improvements in transportation facilities and an increase in the individual ownership of automobiles have shortened the time of transportation between suburban territory and the central part of Indianapolis. Another factor in the suburban trend is the desire for more room and the urge to escape smoke and soot.

The shift in population follows a general pattern shown by census studies thruout the country. Real estate interests saw what was coming and prepared for it. They are confident that the same trend will continue during the next 10 years.

MR. PEPYS TALKS TO HIMSELF.

14th April—Did go to see the French pictures at the art museum and found peace of mind there, not so much in the beauty of the paintings as in the thought that they were done when the world was not as troubled as it is today. Here are pictures from Napoleon's time, and one showing him at the battle of Arcola, for which he posed; yet even that great disturber did not trouble the soul of the world as much as his German successor.

Did observe among these pictures some I remembered from walks in the Louvre and other galleries in Paris long ago, and was glad of the chance to see them again, for I thought it would never come. How much in the fashion everything French was then, and how out of it now, because of that country's misfortunes. Yet France will live to set the styles again, I have no doubt, for the genius of a race survives its defeat in battle.

Did not join the Easter parade yesterday, but put on old clothes instead and went afield to find the miracle of resurrection in Nature. Heard a meadow lark, and that is a happier sound than radio's voice of doom, which is getting this nation beside itself with worries. Saw a shrew, and meditated upon him.

A shrew is much smaller than a mouse, and without food he will starve to death in three hours, so he is always in a fury of hunger, eating bugs every minute. He will die of fright if you seize him, but his hunger drives him to attack larger animals than himself and slay them. A little shivering thing, yet a raging devil and a greater hero than the lion.

In Europe there are many millions of little men now shivering in terror, yet their mighty conqueror should beware of these human shrews.

POPPY REQUIEM.

Where poppies bloom, with croon of flowers,
A requiem above war-dead,
Let us hear thru springtime hours:
"Keep the peace for which we bled!"

Above that still, white sea of crosses—
The Argonne's bloody Calvary—
"See there be no more such losses; Calm, the waves of Galilee!"

Tho, half starved in icy grottoes,
Europe mourns while cannon kill;
Lest Judaea heed false mottoes,
Christ yet whispers: "Peace, be still!"

America, with choirs of flowers
Crooning over silent dead;
Remember, thru spring-lovely hours,
"Keep the peace for which we bled!"

More About "Uh-Huh" and "Uh-Uh."

Your reference to American gutturals [April 8] and their derivation interested me because over 50 years ago, when my family moved from New England to southern Ohio, we were amused by the general use of the gutturals for "yes" and "no." We had never heard anything of the sort in any part of New England. Your article explains its derivation—from the Germans. They were a large part of the early settlers in southern Ohio [and desirable ones], especially in Cincinnati, where we first resided on arriving from the east. This "yes" and "no" sound was in general use then up to Columbus and central Ohio at least.

Old Buckeye.

A New American's Dream of Indians.

It was the ambition of every boy in our Austrian village to meet a full-blooded Indian some day. Even the national heroes faded in importance when we first read of the Indian tribes in Cooper's "Leather Stocking" stories.

When I reached these shores I was burning with eagerness to see an Indian and had been disappointed that not a single brave met our steamer. To satisfy my yearning I was taken to a theater in New York where an Indian drama was the attraction. I was tremendously impressed, tho the Indians were cast as the villains. This, then, was my introduction to American drama and the American scene.

Proudly I mailed a postcard of the play to a school chum I had left behind and plaintively wrote a heart-felt "wish you were here" below the pictures.

POT VERSUS KETTLE.

[A Brookfield Ballad.]

The jackal serves, in nature's plan,
As animated garbage can.
He and his pack collaborate
With beasts who never clean their plate;
And when they all vacate a scene
That they've made tidy, neat and clean,
They sing a song, much like a shriek,
Whose words would tell [if they could speak]
How much they dislike and detest
The humans who dare call them "pest"
Yet prove their own contrariness

Bringing May De Sousa Up to Date.

To complete your column's accounts of May De Sousa:

In Shanghai she married Dr. William E. O'Hara, an Englishman who comes from a family of doctors. He is regarded as one of the finest surgeons in the orient, and has often flown to other cities, even to Japan, to perform operations on wealthy Chinese and Japanese. He is now past 60, and I believe that he has retired from active practice. They have no children.

FAINTING AND LOW BLOOD PRESSURE.

ALTHO the presence of a blood pressure that is too low for comfort and efficiency has been denied repeatedly, nevertheless the well-being of certain individuals seems to argue that such a situation not only exists, but may seriously handicap the victim.

When do we consider the systolic level subnormal? Well, anything under 100 millimeters of mercury may be thought of as belonging in this category. But this does not mean that unpleasant symptoms are necessarily in evidence. In a study of 656 college students, two out of every 100 exhibited readings that varied from 90 to 100 systolic and these young people appeared perfectly healthy. None had complained of the slightest fatigue.

Before we can understand the influence of the flowing currents within our vessels perhaps we should inquire as to the factors that maintain force [pressure]. First, there is the contraction of the heart; second, the resistance of the walls of the conduits; third, the behavior of the capillaries—whether contracted, dilated, or only partly so; and, fourth, the volume of blood that is present and its character.

If hemorrhages occur, should the heart be exhausted, or should the patient be confronted with a wasting disease or starvation—the circulation will be weak and under very little tension. Should a condition arise which engorges the billions of capillary loops within the skin, the force will drop quickly. This is tantamount to saying that the sufferer can bleed into his skin. In this manner, altho not a drop of fluid is lost, the vital organs may be deprived of essential circulation. At the same time the epidermis is congested and overfilled.

Then comes what we call a very slow pulse, in which the rate at which the pump is beating is scarcely adequate to furnish nutriment to the tissues. Thus it is that dizziness—because insufficient nourishment reaches the brain—may precede collapse. These persons react unfavorably to such simple procedures as a hypodermic injection and may "pass out" at the sight of blood.

Posture likewise may be responsible. Many a man or woman will experience a sense of whirling on sitting up or standing — after lying down. In fact, a reading of 130 to 140 while in bed may tumble to 90 or below on rising suddenly.

Frequent fainting attacks may be the chief symptom. As the patient puts it, "Everything goes black" and—unless some firm object can be grasped—he may fall. As a rule, this manifestation does not come on quickly and, for a time, vague symptoms may be observed, such as momentary blurring of vision or nausea.

Gradually, however, the signs will increase in severity until—because of worry, excitement, or some other stimulus to the sympathetic nervous system—consciousness may be lost for a few seconds. When the pressure within the vessels is taken it will be found low.

Most of these sufferers can be relieved by means of an abdominal binder. The device may be worn routinely. It should be snug enough to support the muscle wall. Whenever the abdominal muscles are lax they become filled with great quantities of vital fluid, which leaves the brain ill-provided. The use of the "harness" squeezes the blood out of this area and redistributes it where a deficiency exists.

We need not look upon the trouble as at all serious. Children outgrow it as they develop more stable emotional characteristics. Adults who have difficulty should take plenty of exercise out of doors, wear a firm girdle, and acquire the habit of changing position slowly and deliberately.

HAIR LOSS.

W. F. writes: I am recovering from pellagra and my hair is falling out. Is it possible that it will grow again?

REPLY.

As a rule, regrowth of hair occurs after a wasting illness. The scalp, however, is temperamental and prophecies are dangerous.

THYROID MEDICATION.

L. D. G. writes: Why is it harmful to take thyroid tablets without a physician's prescription?

REPLY.

This drug is powerful and may affect the heart and disturb the nervous system. Much damage may be done before you know it.

THE SONS OF THE MIGHTY.

Chicago, April 10.—A few months ago Senator "Cotton Ed" Smith voted for national conscription. At that time exemption clauses were written up, the law was passed, and the young men of the nation were soon leaving their homes for a year's service in the army at $21 a month. It was to be a fair and just law reaching into the homes of rich and poor alike. The people were convinced of the justice of the law and accepted it in the usual American way.

A few days ago that law reached into the home of Senator Smith and yanked his son before the draft board. Young Smith had no dependents, was within the age limit, and the board placed him on the eligible list. Senator Smith sought to have his son deferred by virtue of his occupation. Young Mr. Smith, it seems, is employed as secretary at a salary of $3,900 a year for a committee of which his father happens to be chairman. Nobody else could fill that job, according to Cotton Ed, so his son would have to be deferred—or else. Needless to say young Mr. Smith's classification was changed. He is now free to continue enjoying his $3,900 salary while his fellow Americans sweat in the army camps for $21 a month. That's the democratic system as it is in America today. Next time I'm voting for Norman Thomas.

Wasn't it a bit unusual that the young Roosevelts should all be handed commissions before the draft arrived at the White House? Now as officers these members of the American royal family can put in their time cavorting about the Stork club or fishing with their illustrious father—all in the uniforms of the army, navy, and marine corps. No rigid discipline or inconvenience for these gentlemen—somehow they made sure they wouldn't be slapped into any army camps for $21 a month. What saps the rest of us must be in their aristocratic eyes.

LIFE APPOINTMENTS FOR STATE JUDGES.

Benton Harbor, Mich., April 7.—A few days ago THE TRIBUNE reprinted a rather good editorial from the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, which thinks that it is too bad that Billy Skidmore and Al Capone could not be convicted in state courts of their main crimes instead of waiting for Uncle Sam to send them over the road because they failed to pay him his share of the profits on their devilitry. I think I know what to do about it. The thing to do is to amend the constitutions of the states so that state judges are appointed for life, as United States judges now are. When that is done the gangsters will begin to sit up and take notice. They will be snapping their fingers at the state courts till the crack of doom unless the change is made.

"SAVE OUR REPUBLIC."

Chicago, April 11.—I wish to thank you very much for your new platform, "Save Our Republic." I am deeply grateful for the wonderful efforts your paper and its editorial writers are making to try to preserve peace for America.

There are millions of us who are fighting with all of our strength to preserve the principles of our republican form of government and to try to keep the name of our wonderful country untarnished. We tremendously appreciate your work.

While we Americans here are stripping ourselves of defense materials and our wealth in the famous "all-out" aid to Britain, innumerable "refugee agencies" are placing countless thousands of "refugees" in well paying positions which our own people cannot obtain. I know of several refugee doctors who are doing very well in state institutions.

At least two Englishmen of fighting age have established themselves very well indeed, one on our main thorofare, with thousands of dollars of English antique silver, brought from abroad. New York is full of these English deserters with antique silver shops.

Chicago, April 10.—Much has been said in connection with the announcement of Senator Sheppard's death about his interest in prohibition. However, it is unfair not to call attention to other great services. No one should forget the contribution that he made toward the development of national skill and administration in giving to the United States children's bureau the opportunity furnished by the enactment of the so-called Sheppard-Towner law, which had for its purpose the protection of the lives of mothers and infants.

This law was allowed to expire in 1929, but the administration under the security act is a very different kind of administration from what it would have been if there had not been the brilliant experience of the children's bureau during these seven years when it was in effect.

TERMS OF WILL.

Sandusky, O., April 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Can trouble arise if a couple have made their respective wills in favor of each other, in the event of one of them passing away?

2. Both have made a certain child administrator and wish this child to take charge of everything.

3. There are three children in this family but only two of them have been mentioned in the wills. The third is not mentioned at all.

4. Can the third child hold up the sale of property in any way?

5. Do the children have to see the will in the event of one of the parents passing away?

E. S. M.

1. We would not undertake to say that trouble cannot be made.

2. Personal representative named in a will is called an executor.

3. Such discrimination encourages a possible will contest and hence increases the importance of employing an attorney to see that the will is properly drawn and properly executed.

4. In order to set aside the will he would have to show undue influence or lack of testamentary capacity or that the will was not properly executed.

5. The will should be filed in the office of the clerk of the Probate court and the children can examine it there if that is what you mean to ask.

DANISH FOREIGN OFFICE PROTESTS GREENLAND PACT

Claims Government Not Informed of Accord.

COPENHAGEN, Denmark [via Berlin], April 13 (AP).—The Danish foreign office declared invalid today the agreement for the United States to establish air bases in Greenland because, it asserted, the Danish king and government had not collaborated in the accord.

The foreign office claimed furthermore that King Christian X and his government had not been informed of the agreement signed in Washington Wednesday by the Danish minister.

It was disclosed that the Danish foreign minister had protested to the American chargé d'affaires here over the question of involving Greenland's sovereignty without giving him a chance to act in behalf of Denmark over the proposed establishment of American bases there.

Henrik de Kauffmann, Danish minister to Washington, has been recalled, it was disclosed, and told to leave his counselor in charge of the legation there.

U. S. to Support Envoy.

Washington, D. C., April 13 (AP).—The United States is expected to tell Henrik de Kauffmann tomorrow that it will continue to recognize him as minister of the Danish people and back his defiance of a Copenhagen foreign office telegram ordering him home.

De Kauffmann received the recall order, signed only "foreign office," after he had signed an agreement for establishment of American air bases in the Danish island of Greenland. Previously, the minister had ignored instructions from German occupied Denmark to protest the American seizure of 39 Danish ships.

A spokesman at the Danish legation said the order for De Kauffmann to return obviously was sent by the foreign office "under duress and the minister feels it his duty to remain here."

Envoy Sees Hull Today.

At both the state department and the legation it was indicated that the minister would visit Secretary Hull tomorrow at which time it was assumed he would show Hull the telegram and express formally his intention to remain here.

President Roosevelt and the state department already have made plain the United States' views on the status of the Copenhagen government. In statements announcing the Greenland agreement, they said that the United States recognized Danish sovereignty over Greenland, but that "under the present circumstances the government of Denmark cannot, of course, act in respect of its territory in the western hemisphere."

Ex-Minister in Washington.

When the Germans occupied Denmark a year ago, the United States withdrew Ray Atherton, its minister at Copenhagen, and his staff, but ordered its consulate to continue.

De Kauffmann's refusal to bow to the order to come home has precedent. The minister from Czecho-Slovakia kept his post after Germany had taken over his country. The ministers of the Netherlands and Norway continued their jobs, but in those instances the sovereigns of their countries had fled upon the German invasion and set up governments in exile in London.

MYSTERY FANS, HERE'S A POLICE PUZZLE TO TRY

If you want to try your hand at solving a mystery, stop when you get to the last paragraph. Here are the facts discovered by Detectives Anthony Bongiorno and Charles McAllister when they were summoned to the Hawkins Electric company at 1445 Washington boulevard yesterday:

A pane of the skylight of the one story building had been loosened. Beside the door leading to the stockroom lay a crowbar. The door's lock had been broken. Nothing was missing. Now stop reading, prepare your solution, and then read what the detectives think happened:

Their hunch: A burglar or burglars removed the pane, attached a rope to the roof, slid down with a crowbar, broke the lock, found nothing he or they wanted in the $50,000 stock, climbed up the rope again, put the pane back and departed—with the rope. Imaginative fellows, the detectives, aren't they?

DR. H. C. LYMAN, NOTED SURGEON, KILLED IN BLAZE

Dies as He Tries to Flee Fire in His Home.

Dr. Horace C. Lyman, 49 years old, a specialist in industrial surgery, was found dead yesterday in his home at 1324 Greenleaf avenue when firemen were summoned to extinguish a blaze in his bedroom on the second floor. Death was believed to have been caused by suffocation.

Dr. Horace C. Lyman.

The fire was discovered by a neighbor, James Jacobson, 1328 Greenleaf avenue. Fireman found Dr. Lyman on the floor in his pajamas in a hall outside his bedroom, which was a mass of flames.

Believed Awakened by Blaze.

Detectives George Helstern and William Ford of the Rogers Park station surmised that Dr. Lyman was awakened by the fire and was trying to get outside when he collapsed. The fire is believed to have started from defective wiring or a cigaret.

Dr. Lyman was alone in the house. His widow, May, and a son, David, 13, who were vacationing in Long Beach, Cal., were notified.

Dr. Lyman was born in Graceville, Minn., was graduated from Illinois university's college of medicine in 1915, and had practiced in Chicago since. His office was at 10 South La Salle street.

On Staff of Four Hospitals.

He was an executive of the Alexian Brothers' hospital staff and also a member of the staffs of the West Side, West Suburban, and Edgewater hospitals. He served as a lieutenant in the army during the world war.

Dr. Lyman was a fellow in the American College of Surgeons and former secretary of the Chicago Society of Industrial Medicine and Surgery. He was a member of the American Medical association, the Chicago and Illinois Medical societies, and the Park Ridge Country club.

Besides his widow and son, a daughter, Mrs. John Hackett, survives.

82 COOK COUNTY VILLAGES CAST VOTE TOMORROW

Polling places in 82 Cook county villages will be open from 6 a. m. until 5 p. m. tomorrow for the election of local officials. Larger suburbs such as Oak Park, Evanston, and Cicero held their elections April 1, but most of the other municipalities in this and surrounding counties will choose between two or more slates tomorrow.

Calumet City has been the scene of a heated campaign, with the town's taverns and night clubs an issue in the fight two parties are making to turn the present administration out of office.

Three tickets are in the field in River Grove, to the northwest. Martin Enger, president since 1933, first decided he would not run for reelection, then changed his mind and filed on the United Citizens' ticket. Frank A. Conboy opposes him on the Progressive ticket and Arthur D. Walsh on the Coalition ticket.

Wilmette voters will choose between Harry C. Kinne for reëlection as president of the village board, and Henry Brandt. Kinne is running as an independent and Brandt as the head of the Harmony slate.

AWARD CHICAGO FIRST HONORS IN WAR ON SYPHILIS

Chicago has been awarded first honors in the intercity syphilis control contest conducted by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States during the last year, according to an announcement received by the Chicago Association of Commerce. The association of commerce and the board of health report that the positive syphilis rate in Chicago has been cut from 7 per cent of the entire population in 1938 to 4.9 per cent last year.

BANDIT IS SHOT TWICE IN TWO ESCAPE BREAKS

A confessed bandit, shot once by police last night when he attempted to flee from a trap set at a stolen automobile, made another attempt to escape less than an hour later and was shot again.

Walter W. Masterson.

The bandit, Walter W. Masterson, 23 years old, 949 Webster avenue, was trapped in Sheffield avenue half a block from his home. Detectives John Ashley, Raymond Rydeen, and Joseph Jandacek of the stolen auto detail had waited there 10 hours for some one to enter a parked automobile which had been taken April 3 from John Butero, 26, of 459 North Peoria street.

On that occasion a bandit robbed Butero of $9, ejected him from his automobile, molested Butero's companion, Miss Anne Policello, 22, of 3563 Lituanica avenue, and robbed her of $8 before releasing her.

When Masterson appeared last night at the stolen car the detectives closed in with drawn guns and ordered him to surrender. He fled, but was brought down by a bullet fired by Ashley. At the Bridewell hospital it was ascertained Masterson had suffered a minor scalp wound.

Policemen John Rumishek and Raymond Bender of the Hudson avenue district, where the car was found, took Masterson to the central police building.

Masterson was handcuffed, but when he stepped from the patrol wagon at the police building he ran south in the alley. Rumishek fired four shots and Masterson fell with a bullet thru the left hip. He was returned to Bridewell hospital.

The detectives who captured Masterson said a .32 caliber revolver and a blackjack were found in the stolen car. Masterson was carrying Butero's billfold and identification cards, and police said he admitted the robbery.

Masterson was placed on probation for one year in 1937 for tampering with an automobile.

CITIZENS' HOUR GROUPS TO HEAR SELVES ON RADIO

Participants in the Citizens of Tomorrow broadcast will have an opportunity to hear themselves on the air. Starting tomorrow the program, which previously was heard at 4:30 p. m., will be broadcast at 7:30 p. m. The program, however, actually will be presented in the W-G-N studios at 4:30 p. m. Because of the baseball broadcasts it will be recorded at that hour and put on the air at 7:30 p. m.

Senn High school will be saluted tomorrow. Six hundred students will come to W-G-N's main studio to join in the broadcast. David M. Davidson, the principal, will speak, and the school glee club of 50 voices, directed by Dr. Samuel Burkholder, will sing.

False Teeth Wearers Often Worst Breath Offenders!

"Need More Than a Mouth Wash" say Authorities... Recommend Polident

A thin dark film collects on plates and bridges. This film soaks up odors and impurities like a sponge! It holds germs and decay bacteria, and it is so tough that ordinary brushing seldom removes it. It gets into every tiny crevice where brushing can't even reach. Almost always it results in "denture breath"—probably the most offensive of all breath odors.

Yet there's a perfect way to clean and purify false teeth without brushing, acid or danger. It is Polident, a powder that dissolves away all scum, stains, tarnish and odor. Makes breath sweeter—and plates or bridges look better and feel better. Tens of thousands call Polident a blessing for comfort, convenience and hygiene. Long-lasting can costs only 30¢ at any drug store. Approved by Good Housekeeping Bureau and dentists everywhere.

Cleans, Purifies Like Magic
Do this daily: Add a little Polident powder to ½ glass water. Stir. Then put in plate or bridge for 10 to 15 minutes—Rinse—and it's ready to use!

Prevents "Denture Breath"

We first published this advertisement about a year ago. We repeat it now for two reasons. First, because it has just been designated "the best single advertisement for circulation purposes" in 1940 by a distinguished group of judges in the Editor & Publisher annual newspaper promotion awards. And second, because it expresses so well not only the attitude of so many women toward The New York Times – but our own attitude toward the women who read The Times, that they are intelligent persons who enjoy an intelligent newspaper.

The Greatest Beauty Secret of Them All!

Fortunate is the girl who has good looks—and don't I know it! For I am one of the lucky ones, and I spend plenty of time each day finishing a job that Nature, all in all, commenced very satisfactorily.

But the other day I made a discovery. Good looks are like a letter of introduction . . . each helps you to get acquainted, but after that it's up to you.

The talk had wandered (much to my relief) from the Scandinavian situation to women—fashions, and present-day standards of beauty. And I was about to utter something deathless about face cream, when the quiet chap in the tweed suit spoke.

"Curious thing about beauty," he said. "You'd think that a pretty face and figure are all a girl would need to be beautiful. But most men will agree that it takes more. Today, a woman has to know something . . . real beauty is more than skin deep."

It's funny, after all the time I've spent at a mirror, that I should suddenly catch a glimpse of myself in a passing conversation! But there was the score. Good looking, yes . . . but real beauty is more than skin deep!

So I set out to do something about it. I started reading some of the new books (even one or two of the old), hearing some good music (and liking it), and, above all, keeping up with the world by reading a good newspaper every day.

What newspaper? The New York Times, of course. I picked it because of its reputation, and now I realize why it has that reputation. Not only does it help me to talk intelligently about the exciting things going on in the world, but I really enjoy the half-hour that I spend with The Times every morning.

"ALL THE NEWS THAT'S FIT TO PRINT"

Chicago Views Most Colorful Easter Parade

BY INDIA MOFFETT.

(Pictures on page 7.)

A day as hot as the Fourth of July made this year's Easter parade the gayest, the most colorful, and the most interesting Chicagoans have seen or participated in for many a year.

The most comfortable looking persons in the Easter parade were coatless nurses in crisp white uniforms, and their young charges, most of whom were without coats or sweaters. What a contrast they provided to Chicago's usual Easter.

Long before the doors of the Fourth Presbyterian church were opened there were crowds waiting at Michigan avenue and Delaware place. Some were there to worship but more were there to see the worshipers, for this particular corner has come to be THE place for sightseers to assemble on Easter morn.

The hats of the women did much to contribute to the carnival spirit, for never in the memory of this reporter, who has been covering Easter parades since 1920, has feminine headgear been so enchanting, delectable, carefree, ridiculous, and wholly delightful.

Mrs. Charles Borland's Hat Wins Contest.

That men really do like startling hats rather than conservative ones was proved, however, by the selections of the judges in a hat contest held during luncheon in the Camellia House, for none of the four winners was an inconspicuous hat.

Mrs. Charles Borland, who won the prize [another stunning hat] was wearing a dashing chapeau that made her look as if she were ready to take flight. It had a navy blue foundation and the spreading wings were snowy white. Her veil was blue with white popcorn chenille dots. Mrs. Paul Butler, who was first in three honorary mentions, had a diminutive white sailor atop her pretty head. Four little pink camellias and a blue veil trimmed the hat. Mrs. Leonard Soll, in a swaggering Alpine number of brilliant green with a red band and a long red feather, and Miss Beatrice Joyce in a severe navy and white striped pill box, were the others chosen by the masculine judges as having hats worthy of honorable mention.

One of the most beautiful Easter costumes observed at St. Chrysostom's was worn by Mrs. Curtis B. Munson, who was accompanied by her husband. Over a softly draped sheer silk gown of black and white print Mrs. Munson wore a shirtwaist type coat of thin black wool. Her hat was a tiny one of black, worn well forward, and trimmed with an enormous bow of white grosgrain ribbon.

Mrs. Solomon B. Smith Wears White and Gray.

Two Easter worshipers who are to be found at St. Chrysostom's regularly every Sunday of the year were Mrs. Solomon B. Smith and her sister, Mrs. William M. Collins Jr. The former wore a stunning gray and white checked skirt and a plain pale gray fitted jacket. Her hat was of white, fastened with a gray headband and trimmed with a tailored gray bow. Mrs. Collins wore a fitted navy coat of wool with exquisite detail in its cut and finish, and a little hat of purple trimmed with a large bunch of violets. She wore a small corsage of fresh violets with a single crimson carnation in the center. Her gloves were purple.

A stunning older couple were Mr. and Mrs. Barrett Wendell. He wore conventional morning attire, top hat and all. Mrs. Wendell wore a bright blue dress and carried her coat. Her hat was ashes-of-roses color, trimmed with two feather birds rising high in the air.

The Le Roy Kramers were accompanied by one of their sons, Henry, in his midshipman's uniform, and Miss Janet Bunyan of Cleveland, O. Miss Bunyan, a tall young woman, wore to great advantage a huge, wide brimmed hat.

Spring Decorations Greet Casino Guests.

Truly springlike were the decorations at the Casino, which by 1:30 o'clock was filling rapidly with luncheon guests.

Mrs. I. Newton Perry, president of the club, wore a black dress and jacket, the lapel and cuffs of which were of dusty pink embroidered with black wool. Her hat was black, and her flowers were white orchids. Two stunning hats noted at the smart little club were worn by Mrs. John C. Murphy and Mrs. John L. Cochran. Mrs. Murphy, who stopped in for a minute, wore a "beanie" of navy straw topped with a "frill" of white straw encircling a large red rose, like an old-fashioned nosegay. Mrs. Cochran's hat was of lacquered pale blue

50,000 Attend Open Air Sunrise Service

Church Crowds in Chicago Set New High Mark

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Chicago went to church yesterday as possibly never before on Easter day.

Estimates that yesterday was possibly the greatest church-going day in Chicago history were borne out by the Chicagoland Easter Sunrise service in Soldiers' field. Harry G. Saulnier, of Pacific Garden mission, chairman of the service committee, declared that many thousands more than any previous year were in Soldiers' field for at least a part of the service.

"There were more than 50,000 persons in the field as the service closed at 7:30," Saulnier said.

At 11 o'clock, several hundred worshipers were trying to enter Fourth Presbyterian church, Michigan avenue and Delaware place. They were admitted to the chapel for an overflow service shortly after the main service began.

Holy Name cathedral not only was filled for the pontifical solemn mass at noon when Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch presided, but also other hourly masses during the morning hours were heavily attended. At 8 o'clock in the cathedral at least 1,000 new members of the Holy Name society received Easter communion. Services were comparably attended in 422 Catholic churches of the city.

While final reports will not be made until this week, it is believed by leaders that the drive for 200,000 new members of the Holy Name society, instituted recently by Archbishop Stritch, has reached its goal.

While Greek Orthodox churches of various nationalities observed Palm Sunday yesterday, a special service of Easter greeting to western Christendom was held at St. Andrew's Greek Orthodox church by the Rev. Dr. Athenagoras Kokkinakis, the pastor. The service was broadcast over station W-G-N. Next Sunday will be the Orthodox Easter for Greek, Russian, Serbian, and other national churches of the Orthodox faith.

More than 3,000 officers, soldiers, and visitors attended open air Easter observances at Fort Sheridan at 10:30 o'clock yesterday. Named a "patriotic assembly," the service was conducted by Chaplain Ira L. Williams, assisted by several Protestant, Catholic, and Jewish chaplains. Denominational services were held at earlier hours.

Front Views and Profiles
By June Provines

Prayer.

Telegram from Henri Bernstein, famous French dramatist, to Daniel Catton Rich offers congratulations to the Chicago Art institute on the current exhibit of French masterpieces, and concludes:

"Today pictures are like human beings. They are asking from your noble country protection and refuge. May you preserve all these beautiful poems fixed on canvas from the vengeance of a bad Viennese painter."

If He Was, He Has.

A man who was a passenger on a southbound Crawford avenue car Friday evening—No. 666 to be definite—occupied three different seats, each of which, within a distance of a mile and a half, he offered to a standing feminine passenger, with a Sir Walter Raleigh sweep of the hand.

In the Morning Mail.

Dear June Provines:

Somehow this may reach John G. Benz. He should know that there is a compatible female who dotes on Toulouse-Lautrec, who went thru Shaw, France, and Marx in high school—who has since covered his list thoroly—and who thinks almost any man could write Frank Harris.

But tell him for me that I find myself married—but happily—to a man who lives in the world of Franck, Heifetz, and Ellington—and who reads detective stories.

Mr. Benz will probably catch the moral to this story.

—Jimtown.

Ruth De Windt to Be Bride of Ex-Grid Star

BY JUDITH CASS.

NEWS of engagements and weddings is of prime importance as the Lenten season ends and the spring wedding season advances. From Great Barrington, Mass., comes the ahnouncement of the engagement of Miss Ruth De Windt, granddaughter of the Heyliger A. De Windts of Winnetka, to Archibald Robinson Hoxton Jr., of Alexandria, Va.

Miss De Windt, sixth generation granddaughter of President John Quincy Adams, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delano De Windt of Great Barrington. She attended the Barrington school for Girls, the Garland school in Boston, and the Katharine Gibbs school in New York. Mr. Hoxton, who distinguished himself on the football field while attending Yale university, is on the faculty of the Hotchkiss school. He was a member of the Torch honor society and of Skull and Bones at Yale. His father is headmaster of the Episcopal High school in Alexandria.

Announce Engagement of Patricia Manley.

At a party for young people in their Evanston home on Saturday Mr. and Mrs. John A. Manley announced the engagement of their daughter, Patricia Anne, to Robert Fuller Norcott, son of the Henry Norcotts also of Evanston. The wedding will take place this summer.

Miss Manley and Mr. Norcott grew up together in Evanston and have been friends for many years, but even so the announcement of their engagement came as a great surprise. Miss Manley is a graduate of Bradford Junior college and of the National College of Education. Mr. Norcott is engaged in business in Buffalo, where he and his bride will reside.

Mrs. A. Foster Klink of Evanston yesterday afternoon announced the engagement of her daughter, Catherine Jean, to Edmund L. McGibbon, son of Mrs. Franc L. McGibbon of Kenilworth.

Miss Klink, who is better known by her nickname, "Billie," attended the Roycemore school and is a graduate of Connecticut College for Women. Mr. McGibbon is a graduate of Dartmouth and of Northwestern University Law school and is engaged in business in Chicago. Miss Klink's sister, Marion, was married to Barton Cameron last fall.

McKisson-Merritt Wedding Bids Mailed.

Miss Mary Louise McKisson and Haines Rennyson Merritt Jr. of East Aurora, N. Y., are deep in plans for the decorating and putting in order of their future home, Old North farm, near East Aurora. Invitations to their wedding on May 3 were mailed on Saturday and included at home cards for after June 1, altho it may be nearer July 1 before Mr. Merritt and his bride are settled comfortably. Instead of going south or west on a wedding trip they will go directly to a log cabin owned by Mr. Merritt's parents, the senior Mr. and Mrs. Merritt of East Aurora, so they can keep an eye on progress at the farm.

The wedding is to take place at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon in the Winnetka Congregational church, the Rev. Samuel Harkness officiating, with a reception following at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. McKisson. Miss Nancy McKisson, who attends Duke university, will be her sister's maid of honor. The bridesmaids will be Miss Jane Darrow, Miss Miriam Bartlett, Miss Barbara Reed, and Mr. Merritt's sister, Miss Jane Merritt of East Aurora.

Two parties planned for Miss McKisson are a luncheon Mrs. Hugh Clayton will give next Saturday and a cocktail party Miss Katherine Winter is giving next Sunday. Two other brides-to-be will share honors at the cocktail party, Miss Peggy Ketcham, who is engaged to Donald W. Kurtz, and Miss Jean O'Brien, whose fiancé is Joseph M. Hay, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Hay of Rock Springs, Wyo. Miss Ketcham and Mr. Kurtz will be married on April 26.

Miss O'Brien will become Mr. Hay's bride at 5:30 o'clock on May 9 in the Church of the Holy Comforter, Kenilworth, with a small reception following at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur James O'Brien. Miss Ketcham, who then will be Mrs. Kurtz, will be Miss O'Brien's only attendant.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas K. Huntress [Betty Ashcraft] are being congratulated on the birth of a daughter on

Looking at Hollywood
By John Chapman

Diary of a Movie Correspondent.

Hollywood, Cal., April 13.—Monday—A morning of desk work and an afternoon of golf with Mal Pavey, Henry O'Neill, and Frederick Hazlitt Brennan, the writer. What has happened to Brennan recently is an interesting slant on a new trend in the relationship between Hollywood and the Broadway theater. For years Broadway has complained that it can't develop new dramatists because the promising ones are snatched by the movies. Playwrights go where the money is—and the money has been here. But now the big money is in the theater, where film rights are soaring. It is nothing new for motion picture companies to back stage productions—but we sense a change. They are going to back authors instead of managers. Brennan recently completed a drama about a Cockney family in London, titled "We Fought at Arques." And Metro has paid Brennan a reported $30,000 advance on royalties—on play royalties, mind you, not film rights. It also will sponsor the Broadway production, with George Abbott as the manager. This subsidy is an unprecedented incentive for a man to write for the stage, and Broadway may cheer up a bit. . . . Columbia Pictures, too, is mulling over a plan for subsidizing playwrights.

Tuesday—Last night we sloshed to Glendale to see Bill Wellman's "Reaching for the Sun," which is warmly human and in which Eddie Bracken shines. The picture missed a bit, we thought, at two points. It failed to persuade us that clam digging is a more desirable life than working in an auto factory—and the big fight, in which Joel McCrea and Albert Dekker battle with huge machines in a motor plant, sounds more dramatic than it turned out to be.

Wednesday—To R. K. O., to watch Lewis Milestone direct a scene from his new comedy, "My Life with Caroline," and to goggle at the blonde beauty of Anna Lee. The scene involves Ronald Colman, Hugh O'Connell, and a front door. The door is a running gag thru the picture: O'Connell, a dignified servant, is always closing it behind him and locking himself out. . . . Then to the Alfred Hitchcock set, where Cary Grant and Joan Fontaine are doing one of the key scenes in "Before the Fact"—a scene in which Miss Fontaine suspects that Grant has committed a murder. Hitch is making them underplay it; they talk almost in whispers.

Thursday — Dinner at Preston Sturges' tavern, the Players, and to a projection room to see, at long last, Orson Welles' "Citizen Kane." It is the finest motion picture I ever saw—thrilling, absorbing, wonderfully put together. Much more on "Kane" later.

Friday—To see Richard Arlen, a one man industry. With Bill Thomas and Bill Pine he's making a new series of pictures, the first of which was "Power Dive," and in his aviation business, counting flying school and freight lines, he's operating 27 planes and buying more whenever they're available. Soon he will open a new line, flying chilled, fresh fish from the Gulf of Mexico to Los Angeles. Air freight, he believes, is the coming business.

Saturday—A chill, damp day. Terrible for studios making westerns. Republic's production costs have tripled during the last six weeks because, with only four or five days good enough for outdoor shots, the studio has had to build exterior sets indoors.

Good Morning!

With the exception of one heartbreaking picture, laughs have it in the loop theaters this week. [Or at least the loop theaters are soliciting laughter.]

"Topper Returns" is a neat combination of humor and horror that I guarantee will entertain you agreeably.

Topper, you will recollect, is forever being visited by wraiths. He's just a dear little commonplace man—but a veritable magnet for spooks. Folks he knows die—but they don't stay put. They climb right out of their mortal coils and hustle back to complicate life for Topper. This time Joan Blondell comes out of the everywhere into the here to make life miserable for him.

How did Gail Richards die? She was killed. By whom? Well—as the picture draws to conclusion, the murderer stands revealed. . . . And I admit freely that I never had an inkling as to her, his, or its identity before that time.

As search for the guilty one proceeds, the ghost of the onetime Miss Richards appears and disappears according to her whim. Rochester, Topper's colored chauffeur, has manifold adventures with it—and an hilarious seal. . . . Mrs. Topper [Billie Burke] flitters and flutters. Wall panels, subterranean passages, and hair raising this, that, and tothers do their stuff. The police are characteristically dumb.

Here is a slapstick melodrama at its punchiest, and I hope you like it. I did.

Hard Case

By Luke Short

[Copyright: 1941: By Luke Short.]

Yellow Jacket's postoffice was a rack of pigeon holes in the front corner of Badey's Emporium. Around 11 o'clock each morning, after the mail stage from Sabinal got in, the loafers lounged on the dry goods counter while old man Badey sorted out the mail.

This morning the procedure was no different than usual. In the drift of idle talk and low laughter from beyond the rack of pigeon holes, old Badey squinted thru his bifocals at the topmost letter of a stack he held in his left hand, and with his right hand he deliberately placed it in its correct box. Fred Curtis, the clerk, was taking care of the trade beyond the postoffice.

Nobody saw old Badey when it happened. He had just read the address of a letter and had his hand half way to the general delivery cubby hole when his hand paused. And then as the name he had read sank into his consciousness, he dropped the letter like he would have dropped a hot iron. Gingerly, he picked it up again and read: "Mr. Dave Coyle, General Delivery, Yellow Jacket, New Mexico Territory. Hold till Sept. 1, and return."

Old Badey's panic was immediate and complete. The first thing he did was natural enough. He poked his head out of the wicket and surveyod the loafers in the store. He knew them all, men, women and children, and still he was uneasy. The second thing he did was explainable: he looked at the feed mill calendar on the wall behind him and it said Aug. 31. The third thing he did was pure instinct. He called up to the clerk, "Finish sortin' this mail, Fred," and left the store, taking the letter with him.

Across the wide and dusty street, wedged in between two wooden-awninged buildings, was the sheriff's office, and old Badey made for it. He tramped into the small office to find Sheriff Harvey Beal, his feet cocked up on the roll top desk, in conversation with his deputy, Ernie See.

Old Badey put the letter on the desk and said hoarsely, "Take a look, Harve."

Beal was a bland faced, heavy set man whose wide and innocent blue eyes were trusting and affable. He was also a slow moving man, but now, because he read the excitement in old Badey's face, he moved with alacrity. He picked up the letter, read the address and came out of his chair like he'd been kicked out.

"Where'd you get this?" he demanded swiftly.

Old Badey, besides being testy, was frightened, too, and he said truculently: "It's got a stamp on it, ain't it? I didn't print it. It come in the mail."

Ernie See reached over and took the letter from the sheriff's hand. Ernie was a slow reader, but it didn't take him long to read this name, because it was familiar enough to him. He dropped the letter and said "Wow!" and looked blankly at the sheriff, his young face surprised.

Beal said: "Did you look at the crowd in the store?" Without waiting for an answer he went to the door and looked swiftly up and down the tie rails on both sides of the street, then closed the door.

Badey said: "I knowed every one in the store."

"Ernie," Beal said swiftly, "you go camp on Badey's counter until I get this fixed up."

"Not me," Ernie said slowly. "Hunh-uhn. I got a three day vacation comin', Harve. I'm takin' it—startin' now."

"That's right. A live one," Ernie said. "I aim to stay alive, too."

Beal stepped over to the desk and pulled out a lower drawer and rummaged in it. He was a somewhat ridiculous figure to a stranger; a fat and rotund and polite man in outsize pants, halfboots that were run over at the heels and a buttonless black vest over a too small calico shirt. But a careful man might consider this: Beal's hands were soft and uncalloused, which argued he had done no manual work in a long time. Which argued he had been sheriff for a long time. Which argued, since Yellow Jacket was a cattle county with a reasonably high homicide rate, that he and his office managed to take care of any trouble that came up. And, since he seemed anything but a scrapper, a careful man might consider the deputy. He would have been right, too, for Ernie See was the sheriff's office.

Beal found what he was looking for and laid it on his desk and looked at his deputy. "Read it," he said.

"I read it," Ernie said stubbornly. "Hell, I know it by heart. Seven thousand dollars, alive or dead, for Dave Coyle."

"I got one in the postoffice," Badey said sourly.

"Well, divide it by three and see what each of us'll make," Beal said.

Old Badey looked carefully at him and said: "Harve, I'm goin' to be sick tomorrow, sick in bed. I'm already sick now."

Beal looked from Badey to Ernie and back to Badey. "One of you on vacation and one of you sick," he murmured scornfully. "Where's all the men in this town?"

"I know where they will be when you tell 'em," Ernie said. "They'll be out of town."

"He ain't so tough," Beal countered.

"If I was you, I'd whisper that," Ernie said dryly.

"He's little. He's a runt," Beal said.

"A stick of dynamite's only eight inches high," Badey said. "He's over five feet, and the same stuff."

"But he's a kid—just a tough kid," Beal insisted. "You afraid of a kid?"

Ernie said dryly: "Don't look at me. I didn't print that reward notice. It's the United States commissioner that's afraid of him. Me, I just don't aim to bust up a three day fishin' trip to meet him."

Beal said grimly: "All right, Ernie. But make your trip longer than three days. Make it three months. Make it three years. Why not? Because you don't have to get back to work."

"Not here."

"No, I'll call at your home."

Beal looked blank. "Why?"

"That's where a funeral usually starts, ain't it?" Ernie said. He waved his hand at Sheriff Beal, grinned, and stepped out onto the walk. Badey started after him, and Beal said: "Wait a minute, Badey. I'll go with you."

"No you won't," Badey said. "I sleep in a single bed, and that's where I'm goin'."

Sheriff Beal settled down into his chair and watched Badey leave. He didn't feel exactly cheerful himself, and he looked around to see if the door were closed. There was a kind of hot and greedy urgency within him, but he knew this would take a little thinking out. As long as the letter, the bait, was in his possession, Dave Coyle couldn't get it. He put the letter in his pocket, just to make sure, and then considered.

Was it a fake? He didn't know, but it seemed as if Dave Coyle had told somebody he'd drop in at Yellow Jacket before Sept. 1 to get his mail. That was the way Dave Coyle did things—like the time he'd gone in the governor's mansion the night of the inaugural ball and picked the blossom from a century plant of the governor's wife to wear in his buttonhole during the dance. He'd do anything that took gall, preferred to do it that way, and somehow this letter business seemed typical.

Beal pictured $7,000 in gold. That was a lot of money. For $10 apiece he could get 20 men to watch Badey's store day and night, and when Dave Coyle called for his letter it would be like shooting a clay pigeon.

Sheriff Beal thought of something then. He remembered the return notation on the envelope. He pulled it out and looked at the back of it, where the return address was given.

"Return to Box 73, Wagon Mound."

Sheriff Beal grinned faintly, then. The return was wrong. It should have read, "Return the box to Wagon Mound," the box, of course, meaning the coffin. He went out, then, to start gathering recruits.

Strange Judas

TRUE LOVE.
FINAL INSTALMENT.

There was nothing of the brilliant, brittle, glamor girl about Sigi now. She spoke frankly to Don, but there was something almost shy in her manner toward him.

"Schmarz knew about my connection with Puttaemus," Sigi said. "But I doubt if he knew what to make of it. He reckoned me to be Puttaemus' woman, working for the capture of Darmal, too. That made us friendly enemies—to be placated or attacked as expediency needed. On that occasion he knew I had a right to be in Hjammerborg. I actually was carrying a message from Puttaemus which I went to deliver before joining you. I'd arranged that, naturally, as part of our escape plan."

"And thank the Lord you had; that brute would have shown me small mercy. . . . But now, I remember, Hertha was upset at the sight of Schmarz in the restaurant. I suppose she feared he might be furious with her for letting us get as far as Denmark, she'd tried to stop us by fainting, you know. It's strange that she should have come under the power of such a creature—and you never knowing."

"She always did mix with a most dubious crowd," Sigi sighed, "and she was always so secretive."

"Since, naturally, you disapproved."

"Not disapproved—was afraid for her. She had no balance, no self-control, no moral sense in certain things. It was the queerest, saddest flaw in one who looked as she looked."

She did not say it, but Don Barron knew that she meant what Knust had talked about—Hertha's utter instability in the matter of men. Thinking of that he said:

"It is a wonder that such a nature should take to political intrigue."

"That may have been me," Sigi said surprisingly. "Her dislike of me. When I first joined the German Freedom group I had a hot anti-Nazi phase—I mean, publicly; I've always had it inside. I joined hostile groups, spoke my mind about the party and all that. That was enough to turn her to the other side. She knew I'd dislike it. Only by the time I'd learnt wisdom, curbed my tongue and had taken up undercover counter-Nazi work seriously, the harm was done. She'd become definitely and deeply entangled with the Gestapo group, probably started her infatuation for Schmarz, who probably taught her to be as secret as I had become—as she became. Poor Hertha, I think her state of mind arose out of her position. She felt an alien in our household. She was no relation to Darmal, I was his granddaughter, I never let that make any difference, I always adored her for her beauty but she always looked on me as her great rival, always wanted to outshine me, and, as she grew older and also cleverer in her arts, she set herself to oust me, yes, even with Grandfather."

"A curious mind," he agreed, "but if you'd only given me an inkling of what she was, it might have helped, my dear."

"I couldn't do that," she said quickly, and colored deeply.

"Because you thought I was in love with her?"

"Yes, and because I thought she—well she felt you were different at first. That always piqued her, and she set herself to win you, and—well I felt that out of that something genuine might come to her at last."

"I see," he smiled mockingly. "So you stood aside and watched her snaffle me—despite the love eating out your heart."

"Don!" she cried from a scarlet face. "How—what rubbish you talk. And you know you were in love with her."

"I was," he said blandly. "Almost!"

"Almost—you're sure it was never more?"

"Quite sure. I found her out in time."

"But—how?"

"I can show you—if you don't mind putting your face forward. . . . Yes, like that——"

He bent and kissed her. She stiffened, tried to back away, but his strong arms held her. For a moment her lips were rigid, then with a sigh she surrendered, answering him with his own warmth, resting against him with a little sigh.

"That's the proof," he said gently, as they broke away. "That was the real thing . . . honest, sweet, and meaning love. . . . The other was fake coinage . . ."

"The other?" she gasped at him.

"I kissed Hertha just once—I'll agree it was touch and go with me, until that kiss. But that kiss decided it. I knew her at once for what she was. . . . It was a false, empty, soulless kiss. A Judas kiss, as I know now—it was when she chalked death on my back. But I didn't know that then, or the true her until later. . . . All I knew was that I didn't and couldn't and never had loved her."

"And so you turned to love me?" she said with wry mockery.

"Or returned to love you," he said quietly. "I think it began in spite of Puttaemus—when I saw you first sitting with him in the Rathskeller. . . . Only what does it matter. I love you now . . ."

"That," she smiled back, "does seem to make most other things of little account."

Among the parishioners at the Fourth Presbyterian church was Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, who wore the 1941 version of a Viking helmet, a turban of dark blue Milan with side wings simulated by loops of the straw. Lavender orchids were fastened on the stitched shoulder of her long navy cape.

Pretty Mrs. Arthur Wirtz wore a forward beret that resembled a spider-web. It was of pink and black crocheted straw. Her dress was of beige silk with a brief beige jacket, purple orchids giving it a splash of vivid color.

Kaleidoscopic Change in Front of Holy Name.

The paved courtyard before the Holy Name cathedral was a place of kaleidoscopic change all yesterday morning. Masses were celebrated at every hour during the morning, and consequently there was a steady stream of open air taxis, chauffeured sedans, and family cars before the great Gothic entrance.

A few blocks away at 11 o'clock service at St. James' Episcopal church drew a large crowd of worshipers. Mrs. Freeman Hinckley, arriving with her daughter, Miss Eleanor McClurg, had a spray of cafe au lait cimbidium orchids pinned to her dark coat. White feathers swirled about the crown of her white hat. Miss McClurg's flowers, worn against a silver fox jacket, were rare bird of paradise blossoms. The apron of her navy crêpe grown was bound in white lace, and her hat was a white sailor.

Many a Smart Bonnet Displayed in Pump Room.

The Pump room's marine blue walls and white leather booths formed an effective setting for the many smart Easter bonnets whose owners dropped in after the Easter parade. Mrs. Edmund F. Mansure's high turban of cocoa straw was bound in beige chiffon, with a cluster of cocoa and beige roses pinned low over one ear. She wore her Easter corsage of white stock and yellow iris at the shoulder of a beige wool coat. Mrs. Frank Bering's bonnet was a confection of poppies, jonquils, field flowers, coarse green veiling, and grosgrain ribbons. The flowers on her hat were duplicated by fresh ones in her wrist corsage.

Violet shades and light blues were color news from Chicago's midnorth side to Evanston in yesterday's Easter turnout. At St. Luke's Lutheran church, Belmont and Greenview avenues, and at Evanston's First Congregational church, grandmothers whose Easter bonnet memories go back to huge crowns dripping plumes over wide brims were content to tie bits of straw and clusters of violets atop their gray locks.

Few Green Hats Appear Among Blue and Violet.

An occasional green hat or green veil stood out among the blue and violet chapeaux. Mrs. Charles Wampler of Evanston used a green veil on her little black hat which was trimmed in white feathers. She wore a black wool cape over black crêpe dress. Another departure from the violet and blue theme was the yellow and gray outfit of Miss Annette Walker of Evanston. Her suit was gray, her blouse, yellow. Mrs. A. W. Fraser of Wilmette wore tan tweeds to services at Evanston's First Congregational church. Mrs. Franklyn B. Snyder, wife of the president of Northwestern university, was attired in black. She had a gardenia corsage.

The La Vigne sisters, Peggy and Yvonne, came in gray tweed suits with full length gray plaid capes. Miss Peggy wore a white silk fez with a navy blue tassel and matching blue accessories. Her sister's hat was of a similar shape, but fashioned of tweed and trimmed with a cluster of crimson posies. Miss Catherine Lindsay lightened a trim, dark costume with a white poke bonnet that tied under the chin with white net veil meshed with colored polka dots.

Beige, in monotone and plaids, and navy suits dominated the Easter parade on the west side yesterday. Intermittent winds caught the sheer veils that dropped over every hat, large or small. Large straw bonnets and sailors were the favorites of the young matrons who entered the First Methodist church in Oak Park for the 11 o'clock service.

Mrs. Ray Warner of Burlington, Ia., a visitor in Oak Park, wore a large black rough straw and lacy veil with her yellow crêpe dress and coat ensemble. An Elmhurst college co-ed, Miss Margaret Hatch of Oak Park, wore a pink jacket over her navy polka dot dress and chose the same pink in wide grosgrain ribbon to trim the cone of her brimmed navy straw.

Churchgoers leaving the North Austin Lutheran church at noon met another crowd entering for the last service. But Miss Jean Rehm's little red straw, trimmed with matching red bird's wings and veiling could be seen in any size crowd. She resides in Glen Ellyn. In contrast, Mrs. Fred C. Canode of Oak Park wore a black and white ensemble which featured a large bunch of white piqué loops on a straw saucer with a black veil overall.

Red was the chapeau choice of many of the women who attended Easter services at the Fifth Church of Christ, Scientist. Hats ranged from tiny flower laden circles to true Easter bonnet shapes.

One particularly stunning hat, worn by Miss Phyllis Cooke, was of deep purple straw. Its tiny brim dipped down to form a heart shaped background for a cluster of gay flowers.

Schiaparelli's pink shades were more popular at the Monumental Baptist church [colored] yesterday than they ever were on Astor street. Violent reds topped the heads of many youngsters as they trotted into Sunday school there.

HAROLD TEEN—WHAT MIGHT HAVE BEEN

THE NERVE OF THAT HAROLD TEEN RUNNING AROUND GETTING ENGAGED RIGHT AND LEFT-- I ALWAYS KNEW HE WAS NO GOOD--IF YOU HAD ONLY TAKEN YOUR POOR MOTHER INTO YOUR CONFIDENCE-THAT WOULDN'T HAVE HAPPENED--WHY-- WHY---!
MOTHER--PLEASE! I TOLD YOU IT WAS ALL MY FAULT--HAROLD IS A FINE BOY-- HE WOULDN'T HURT ANYONE--
THERE YOU GO- DEFENDING HIM AGAIN- IT JUST GOES TO SHOW WHAT A SLICKER HE IS! THANK GOODNESS- I'M HERE TO PROTECT YOU FROM YOUR OWN BLINDNESS-
-AND THAT MOTHER OF HIS- HA! GUESS I TOLD HER A THING OR TWO!
LATER
OUR ENGAGEMENT-RING--THE BAND THAT WAS TO BIND US AS ONE THROUGH LIFE---IS BROKEN! OH, HAROLD, DARLING, I DIDN'T REALIZE WHAT IT MEANT TO LOSE YOU---HOW-HOW CAN I GO ON?

Simple, Pretty House Frock

WOMAN'S AND MISS' HOUSE FROCK.

Besides being easy to wear, a house frock should be simple to make, thus enabling the busy household manager to have a wide variety of dresses which she has made herself at small cost. A pattern to fill this prescription is the one offered today. It is a paneled model which almost sews itself, and the simplicity of it is shown in the diagram. Trim it with lace, rickrack braid or other readymade edging and you've a house dress of distinction.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Numerology By Evelyn Holmes

April 14, 1941.

Universal day—If you are asked to shoulder responsibility today, do so willingly.

If you were born on the 1st, 10th, 19th, or 28th of any month and are over 26 and under 56 [or approximately those years], then this middle period of your life is influenced by this number of your birth date. It is an important span of years in which you are asked to come out boldly for your own rights, to lead perhaps a lonely life if you are ahead of your time. You might not find a partner to share your life or if you do take on a partner may find that you are required to take on all the decisions and planning of your lives together. All thru this important period of your life you are under the urge to forge into new paths, thus bringing changes into the set schedule you have. You might have to make many new starts late in your forties even, never being able to settle down to a smooth life and one of security. You won't be satisfied to rest on your laurels gained in your early years.

Would you like to know what kind of a year 1941 will be for you? Send for your personal yearly, monthly, and daily guide.

Eggs May Be 'Dressed Up' Very Simply

[Copyright: 1941: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Eggs are eggs and there's really no reason for distinguishing between breakfast eggs and luncheon eggs. Fried, baked, poached, or simmered eggs are as good for lunch as earlier in the day, but somehow we like to dress eggs up when they come to table after 9 a. m.

We can dress them very simply. For example, a poached egg on toast covered with cheese sauce, tomato sauce or creole sauce makes a good luncheon dish. Sliced hard cooked eggs in white sauce which has been flavored with curry powder are called curried eggs, and they're good, too.

Scrambled eggs with cheese and chives are a favorite late at night snack, but they'll meet with enthusiasm at noon, also. Chopped ham, bits of bacon, diced cooked sausage links, dried beef, any of these meats will scramble beautifully with eggs.

Creole Eggs.
[Serves Four]
1 tablespoon minced onion
1 tablespoon minced green pepper
1 tablespoon butter
1 small can button mushrooms
1 cup canned tomatoes, sieved
Toast

Cook onion and pepper a minute or two in butter. Add drained mushrooms, tomatoes, and heat thru. Beat eggs and stir into other ingredients. Cook until well scrambled. Season with salt and pepper and serve.

EGGS ROBIN HOOD

Split English muffins and toast them. Butter and top each half with a slice of sautéed boiled ham, a slice of fried or broiled tomato, and a poached egg. Pour cheese sauce over the combination and serve. A green salad, a simple dessert, and a glass of milk will complete a very satisfying luncheon.

EGGS RICHELIEU

Spread hot buttered toast with pate de foie gras, top with a poached egg, and pour tomato sauce over and around the egg. Sardines, sardine spread, anchovy paste, and smoked oyster paste are other spreads for toast to be topped with egg and tomato sauce.

Two large tea and bridge parties will be held today, the first of the post-Easter charity benefits. The Evanston senior board of Northwestern University settlement has taken over the Country club of Evanston for its annual party, at which a showing of spring fashions will be held. The party will start at 2 o'clock. The fashion show will be presented at 3:30. Mrs. Arthur M. Betts and Mrs. George F. Talley are co-chairmen of the benefit.

The Big Sisters are giving their annual party at the Palmer House. Mrs. L. Robert Mellin is chairman. The benefit will be especially gay this year as the organization is celebrating its 25th anniversary. The committee expects the grand ballroom of the hotel to be filled.

The Little Symphony quartet, composed of members of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, will play at a tea Mrs. Clyde M. Carr, Mrs. Charles H. Swift, and Mrs. Frederic W. Upham, honorary chairmen of the women's committee of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, are giving at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon for the new chairman, Mrs. Telfer MacArthur.

The dance committee of the Madonna center annual benefit party will be guests of some of the board members of the center at cocktails from 5 to 6:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Racquet club. The party will be held next Saturday night in the Gold Coast room of the Drake hotel.

The Chicago Drama league is having an Easter breakfast party today at the Blackstone. A number of stage stars from various productions in Chicago will be special guests of the league at 12 o'clock in the Crystal ballroom. Miss Edith Atwater, of "The Man Who Came to Dinner," daughter of a league board member, Mrs. Harold Pynchon; Laura Hope Crews, Effie Shannon, and some others from "Arsenic and Old Lace," and Miss Jane Pickens from the "Boys and Girls Together" company, will be at the speakers' table.

Peacock in Filet Pattern

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Easy to crochet is this lovely peacock in a filet pattern. It is a door panel and also may be used as the center of tablecloth or for whatever purposes the individual may desire. The instructions include a working graph plus detailed directions and material requirements.

For instructions in crocheting the peacock door panel, No. 834, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1941: By Ely Culbertson.]

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: Here is an unusual hand which occurred in a local duplicate and, as kibitzer de luxe, I followed it around for three rounds. It was a little keg of dynamite and the explosions it set up at each table were a pleasure to see, and hear. The fuse is still sputtering, so beware!

South	West	North	East
2 diamonds	Pass	2 spades	3 clubs
3 diamonds	4 clubs	4 diamonds	5 clubs
5 hearts	Pass	5 spades	Pass
7 diamonds	Pass	Pass	Double
Redouble	Pass	Pass	Pass

"West set up the first repercussion by leading a club. Declarer ruffed it, hastily drew trump, and spread the hand. When East came down from the ceiling, he told his partner a few choice things that even a hard boiled kibitzer blushed at.

South	West	North	East
2 diamonds	Pass	2 spades	3 hearts
3 spades	4 hearts	4 spades	5 spades
Double	Pass	Pass	6 clubs
6 spades	7 clubs	Pass	Pass
7 spades	Double	Pass	Pass

"East proved to be a better bidder than a player by plunking down his club ace. The only difference in the explosion at this table from the one at Table 1 was the fact that West was a lady and so could only think the names she would have liked to call East.

"Question 2: Should East have led a diamond?

South	West	North	East
2 diamonds	Double	Redouble	3 spades
3 spades	Pass	4 spades	5 clubs
6 clubs	Double	6 spades	Double
Redouble	7 clubs	7 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

"East opened a diamond and I breathed a sigh of relief. Here, at least, there would be no explosion. West would ruff and the grand slam would finally be set one. But suddenly North bellowed, 'What are you leading for? My partner is the declarer!' Sure enough, after a quiet review of the bidding, South was discovered to be the first spade bidder, and no lead from West could beat the contract with South the declarer at seven spades. The irony of it! The one correct lead in three attempts was out of turn!

—P. J. S., Chicago."

The bidding at all three tables was so remarkable that I must refuse to comment on right or wrong opening leads. I present the hand as a curiosity, and as a striking example of what can happen at the bridge table or, rather, at three bridge tables.

Opera Troupe Lives Roles of 'La Traviata'

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The people of the San Carlo Opera company cannot remember the time when they were not singing "La Traviata." Week after week, year after year—in cities, towns, villages, and whistle stops—these men and women have been telling their audiences the affecting story of the soft hearted Violetta and her fiery Alfredo. They could sing any part of the score in their sleep—and very probably do.

Yet last night's performance of the Verdi classic at the Auditorium—like many another San Carlo performance of this and other equally overworked pieces—did not seem weary or perfunctory. On the contrary, these miraculous men and women were able to throw themselves into the story and to live the lives of the characters almost as enthusiastically as if they had made amazed acquaintance with the beautiful work only the day before.

For the most part, their bright tempi did justice to the eternally bright score. And in the opera's more emotional pages they used all of their instinctive singer's knowledge to make the music's meaning clear to the audience. Tone colorings were apt and phrasings expressive—and these are things which cannot easily be faked. If a singer does not feel genuinely what he is singing about, the chances are high that a listener will sense the lack.

With a conductor like Carlo Peroni at the stand the singers would have a hard time holding out even if such a traitorous notion had ever entered their heads. He conducts each performance as if he were planning to go into some other business the next day and were determined to make his farewell to music as auspicious an occasion as possible.

He had three excellent principals last night—Lucille Meusel, as electric as he, as Violetta; Dimitri Onofrei, whom he has learned never to try to hurry, as Alfredo, and Ivan Petroff, a man whose feeling for the long Verdian phrase has increased notably these last few years, as Germont père. Were it not for the fact that Miss Meusel comes from Green Bay, Wis., this might be called an all-Balkan cast, for Mr. Onofrei is a Rumanian and Mr. Petroff a Bulgarian.

Speaking of Miss Meusel, her father and mother were in the audience last night. This was the first time Mr. Meusel had heard his daughter as Violetta, altho she has sung it nearly 200 times.

The Flora was Charlotte Bruno, masquerading under the name of Dorothy Dickson. Richard Wentworth sang the doctor and Flora Shennan, Annina.

This was the second performance of the troupe's 9 day 10 performance engagement.

SENATORS AND YANKEES OPEN SEASON TODAY

President Will Throw Out First Ball.

Washington, D. C., April 13 (AP).—Baseball officially will return to the national scene tomorrow when President Roosevelt and some 32,000 other fans will watch the New York Yankees play Washington's Senators in the opening game of the American league's 42d season.

The President will toss out the first ball after Vice President Wallace and members of the two teams have participated in a flag-raising ceremony in center field of Griffith stadium.

While tomorrow's game marks the beginning of the 1941 major league pennant race, other teams in the American and National leagues will not play their first games until Tuesday.

Yanks Highly Touted.

The 1941 Yankee team has been heralded as the equal of the New York powerhouses which dominated the league for years. Phil Rizzuto and Jerry Priddy, the sensational short-stop-second base combination up from Kansas City, form the question mark that can make or break the Yanks' pennant chances. Rizzuto will start major league play tomorrow, but Priddy, who twisted an ankle two days ago, may not see action in the inaugural.

Manager Joe McCarthy may be forced to shift Joe Gordon back to second and entrust first base to Rookie Johnny Sturm if Priddy is unavailable.

McCarthy indicated he would send Southpaw Mario Russo against the Senators. Manager Bucky Harris of Washington planned to start Dutch Leonard, the knuckleball artist.

Harris Is Optimistic.

Optimistic over his 1941 squad, which includes several new faces, Harris said he would not be surprised if the Senators finished in the first division. Most Washington backers will be happy, however, if the team winds up a notch higher than its seventh place position of 1940. Three newcomers will be in the Senators' starting lineup—Ben Chapman and Roger Cramer, veteran American league outfielders, and George Archie, rookie first baseman from the Pacific coast league.

Tomorrow will mark the ninth time that Roosevelt has participated in the opening day ceremonies. The President missed his ball-tossing chore a few years ago, but in 1917 when he was assistant secretary of the navy, he raised the flag for a Washington opener. Good weather was predicted. The probable lineup:

G. F. Downer Dies; Badgers' Publicity Head

Madison, Wis., April 13 [Special].—George F. Downer, 66 years old, athletic publicity director of the University of Wisconsin for 13 years, died at his home here early today of a heart attack. Mr. Downer was the first intercollegiate boxing coach at Wisconsin and was responsible for bringing the present boxing coach, John J. Walsh, to Wisconsin in 1934.

BRUINS FORGET THERE'S ANOTHER YEAR; DUCK FANS

Boston, Mass., April 13 (AP).—Boston's Bruins, winners of hockey's Stanley cup, ducked a throng of admirers tonight by alighting at a suburban station. Worn by their four straight victories over Detroit's Red Wings, the Bruins took the easy way to escape a reception.

Assign Umpires for American League Openers

Chicago at Cleveland—William Summers, Steve Basil, Ernest Stewart, and Joseph Rue.

The specialist who accompanied Willkie on that more or less hysteri—I mean historic tour, is asking the G. O. P. for $15,000 fees for spraying Wendell's throat so he could continue giving out thru those 52 hectic days. Wouldn't you think it would be the other way around—that the G. O. P. would be seeking to collect damages from the medico?

And down to first base trots Pop Anson,
Biting a mighty chew;
And over on second is Larry Lajoie,
Placing the bag with his shoe.
Out to deep short goes Hans Wagner,
With sturdy bow-legs a-sprawl,
And who chatters so loudly on third base?
Our old friend Muggsy McGraw!

Ty Cobb, Georgia Peach, they call him.
Is turning around out in right;
And over in left is Bambino Babe Ruth,
And in center field, Tris Speaker,
Up close, will go back like a hawk;

A statue, a picture of poise,
An emblem for aye to the good of the game,
There behind the plate crouches Ewing,
Known unto history as Buck;
And the team that would hope for a win over these

In Love with Death.

I am in love with death that came for you
And led your spirit in the falling dusk
Out where the mist upon the hills is blue
And where the scent of lavender and musk
Hangs heavy on the breeze. Ah, death was sweet
To pilot you beyond this bourne of care
Away from all earth's cunning and deceit
Where there is no more sorrow, no despair.

I am in love with death! O, let him come,
And I shall follow him into the night;
What tho this house of clay grow cold and numb,
And all its blinds be closed against the light;
For there will be a respite from all pain
If death shall lead me back to you again.

DODGERS HELD TO 2 HITS; YANKS TRIUMPH, 3 TO 0

Atley Donald Yields None in Four Innings.

Brooklyn, N. Y., April 13 (AP).—Ernie Bonham and Atley Donald shut out the Dodgers with two hits today as the New York Yankees took the final game of their spring exhibition series, 3 to 0, before 16,351. The victory gave the Yanks an even break in 10 games with Brooklyn this spring. Both Brooklyn hits—a double by Dixie Walker and a single by Joe Medwick—were made off Bonham in his five inning stay on the mound.

The Yankees bunched four of their 12 hits to score two runs off Kirby Higbe in the second inning then collected another tally off Curt Davis in the sixth.

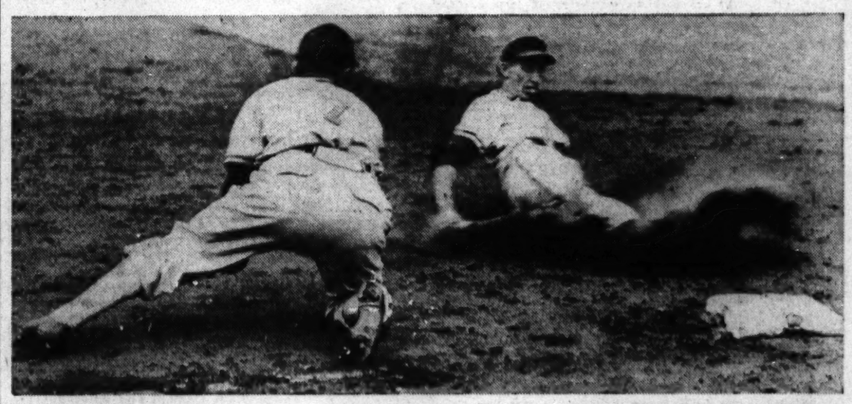
A Homer for Little Dom, but the Sox Won

Dom Dallessandro arriving at home plate in the fourth inning after hitting a home run in Wrigley field yesterday off Ted Lyons, White Sox veteran. The batboy greets the little Cub center fielder and Bill Nicholson (8), awaits his turn at bat. Dom's was the only homer hit in the three-game Sox-Cub series in Chicago. The Sox won the final game, 3 to 2.



Ed Waitkus, Cub first baseman, sliding safely into third base as Third Baseman Dario Lodigiani of the White Sox dives for throw from the outfield after Dallessandro singled in the fifth. Waitkus failed to score, tho, and the Sox made the winning run in the next inning. [TRIBUNE Photos.]

Yanks and Reds Favorites to Win in Betting Odds

New York, April 13 (AP).—The Cincinnati Reds and New York Yankees were made favorites for the National and American league pennant races today by Jack Doyle, Broadway pricelayer. He quoted the Yanks at 7 to 5 in the American league with the Cleveland Indians on almost even terms at 3 to 2, while making the world champion Reds a 6 to 5 choice in the National league compared to 9 to 5 quoted for the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Both Detroit's defending American league champions and the St. Louis Cardinals in the National were rated third as 4 to 1 shots.

Pirates Arrive Today for '41 Inaugural Against Cubs

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Cubs will assemble at their bathhouse at 11 o'clock this morning to try on their new romper suits. They will not be required to do any exercising. The Pirates, who open the National league season with the Cubs tomorrow, are due in from Wichita, Kas., and will be permitted the use of Wrigley field if they desire.

The Sox will leave for Cleveland shortly before midnight tonight. Tomorrow afternoon they will have the pleasure of hitting against Bob Feller, who pitched a no-hit game against the Sox in the 1940 American league opener in Comiskey park last season.

Taft Wright, the Sox's personable right fielder, who was threatened with pneumonia in a sudden attack late Saturday night, yesterday was reported on the road to quick recovery in Mercy hospital.

Announcer Pat Piper was in exceptionally fine voice yesterday. Pat was in such fine form he scarcely had to take a deep breath between announcements.

Dizzy Dean was the Cubs' starting pitcher yesterday but he was neither the winner nor loser. Tho saved from disaster by Bill Nicholson's circus catch in the third, Diz was somewhat better than in Wichita Thursday when he scarcely could get his bean bag pitch to the catcher.

There wasn't anything bigger than a two base hit in the first two games of the Chicago phase of the city series and nothing bigger than a double yesterday until Dom Dallessandro busted a homer at the start of the fourth inning.

Bill Lee got a big hand from the crowd when he went to the mound at the start of the seventh inning. He got another salvo when he went to bat in the Cub half.

Bill Herman, who recently recovered from a backache, was out of yesterday's game nursing a bad ankle. Frantic efforts are being made to get Bill ready for tomorrow's opener, but if the ankle still bothers, Lou Stringer will be at second and Bill Myers at short.

ROOKIE BLANKS NORTH SIDERS IN LAST 4 INNINGS

Bill Lee Goes Strong in 1941 Debut.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The White Sox weren't able to exercise their old magic sufficiently to outpace their old enemies, the Cubs, in the annual spring series but at least were able to conclude the preseason battling with a fancy touch yesterday. Before 14,464 in Wrigley field, the American leaguers put over a neat 3 to 2 job for their sixth triumph in the 14 exhibitions with the National leaguers.

In a way, the concluding act of spring activity was doubly embarrassing for James Wilson's Cub athletes. Their hitting, an art in which they displayed rare talent earlier in the barnstorming schedule, was reduced to a total of seven hits, one of them a home run by Dominic Dallessandro, and one other a gift two bagger for Lou Novikoff. All seven of the blows were off the veteran Ted Lyons who retired after five innings, whereupon Rookie Jack Hallett took charge. Outside of walking one and hitting another, Hallett was perfect.

Dean, French Are Cuffed.

Diz Dean started for the Cubs, but was withdrawn quickly. In three innings he was all right so far as scoring was concerned, the net against him being only one run and four hits. But there were various line drives speared in different sectors by his helpers.

After Diz had done his bit, Larry French was called forth, but his southpawing suffered extensively in his three inning term. He was scored on twice as the result of four safe blows and an error by Billy Myers. Then Bill Lee, the recent holdout, made his 1941 debut, and by holding the Sox to two hits in the last three innings proved he wasn't fibbing when he declared he had done his spring training in his own back yard.

Solters Gets Three Hits.

Billy Nicholson, the Cubs' cleanup batter, did nothing but fly out except once when Lyons fanned him, but Julius Solters, the gentleman occupying the same position in the Sox attack, fared far better. The feebleness of Solters' bat during the past week had spread alarm among the team's master minds, but Julius rallied to the extent of three singles.

The run that broke the tie established when Lyons was pitching in the fourth was managed almost exclusively by Mike Kreevich, who twice before had survived on errors, and Mike Tresh. With one out in the sixth, Iron Mike gave one of French's pitches a ride into left field for a single. A moment later Kreevich hiked to third on a single dumped in short right center by Tresh. Bob Kennedy was sent up to swing for Lyons, and altho he did nothing more ferocious than tap to Hack for a force of Tresh at second, Kreevich had time to scamper home with what proved the deciding run.

Diz Off to a Shaky Start.

Dean's term started violently. Bill Knickerbocker opened with a double to the left field corner, but nevertheless Diz weathered the inning. In the second Diz punctured Dario Lodigiani in the pants. Bill Nicholson speared a drive off Larry Rosenthal's bat. Dallessandro was charged with an error on Kreevich's whistler which could just as easily have been a hit, but the old-timer survived again on Tresh's double play grounder to Myers.

Knickerbocker doubled again in the

OHIOANS SCORE 1,313 FOR SECOND IN ABC DOUBLES

Gold Coast Budweisers Take 7th Place.

St. Paul, Minn., April 13 [Special].—Joe Bodis and Bill Kenet, Cleveland, totaled 1,313 today and took second place in the doubles of the American Bowling Congress tournament.

Kenet, 37 years old, an engraver, had 687 on games of 257, 226, 204, while Bodis, 42, an auto salesman and veteran of 23 tournaments, scored 198, 197, 231 for 626 as the current Central States doubles champions hung up 1,313.

The Gold Coast Budweisers of Chicago paced the 40 teams bowling tonight in the first squad, scoring 2,989 to take seventh place in the team standings.

Lange Sets ABC Record.

Herb Lange, former president of the Chicago Classic league, hit his fifth series over the 1,900 mark in the all-events. He tallied 1,907 today. Lange, who gave his Chapin and Gore team a 653 toward their third place total of 3,033 last night, added 624 in the doubles and finished with 630 in the singles, winding up with 259.

The Chicagoan is the first man to roll over 1,900 in five ABC tournaments. He scored 1,943 in 1922; 1,950 in 1923; 1,901 in 1934, and 1,910 in 1937.

De Grazia Rolls a 289.

Nick De Grazia, Melrose Park, gave the spectators a thrill when he opened his second game in the doubles with ten consecutive strikes. He wound up with 289, between games of 194 and 215 for a 698 series. His partner, Victor Schultz, trailed with 493, as the pair chalked up 1,191. Schultz followed with 652 in the singles to pace the Chicagoland bowlers on the card.

M'Bride Fights Colan Tonight at Marigold

Johnny Colan, New York middleweight, will seek his second Chicago victory in a 10 round bout tonight in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street. His opponent will be Frank McBride, clever south side boxer, who won the 160 pound Golden Gloves qualifying berth on the north side last year. Colan, who is only 19 years old, knocked out Settimo Terracina in a round on the Billy Conn-Gunnar Barlund card in the Stadium April 4.

The triumph over Terracina was Colan's 31st in 34 starts and his 22d knockout. Previously he had knocked out Joe Boscarino in New York. The meeting with Boscarino was Johnny's first main event. If he eliminates McBride, Colan will seek a match with Steve Mamakos of Washington, D. C. Mamakos is matched with Ernie Vigh in Washington April 30. It will be Mamakos' first bout since being knocked out by Tony Zale in a title fight in the Stadium Feb. 21.

Derho Meets Taylor.

Ernie Derho, Minneapolis welterweight, is paired with Tito Taylor in a five round semi-windup. Matches of four rounds bring together Tony Sopko and Ralph Guajardo, middleweights; Richard Rigali and Eddie Miller, featherweights, and Leonard Bostick and Johnny Trotter, light heavyweights.

Oki Shikina and Charley [Gorilla] Grubmyer will meet in a jujitsu bout this evening in White City, 63d street and South Park avenue. . . . A cut eye incurred recently by Jimmy Shepard, Springfield, Ill., middleweight, has forced cancellation of his match in Hammond Friday against Anthony Jones. The next date at the Hammond arena is April 25. An opponent is being sought for Booker Beckwith in the windup contest.

BARLUND HEARING TODAY

Chairman Sheldon Clark of the Illinois Athletic commission and his fellow commissioners, Harry Scranton and Maj. Gen. Roy D. Keehn, will open an investigation of the unsatisfactory Gunnar Barlund-Billy Conn bout in the commission office in the Steger building this afternoon.

Referee Barney Ross awarded the decision to Conn on an eight round technical knockout in Chicago Stadium on April 4 when Barlund's seconds, Paul Damski and Al Ramo, refused to permit Barlund to continue because of a cut on his right eye.

The commission maintains the handlers exceeded their authority in stopping the match, especially since Dr. Frank A. Lagorio, chief medical examiner for the board, had examined the wound and expressed the opinion Barlund was able to fight on.

The seconds may be suspended. Following the fiasco, Barlund's purse was ordered withheld by the commission pending the hearing. It likely will not be forfeited inasmuch as testimony will reveal Barlund did not quit of his own accord.

In defense of his unusual action, Damski said he will testify he has been in constant fear Gunnar would be permanently injured since the death in a fight in Marigold Gardens last Feb. 17 of Arne Anderson, his personal friend. The manager asserted he will tell the commission Barlund has an impaired left eye, a defect which he had when Barlund place himself under Damski's management six years ago in London.

Joe Schultz Sr., Father of Pirate Catcher, Dies

Columbia, S. C., April 13 (AP).—Joe Schultz Sr., scout for the Pittsburgh Pirates, died today in a Columbia hospital. He entered the hospital a few days ago when he was taken ill en route to Pittsburgh. A son, Joe Schultz Jr., catcher on the Pirate team, flew from Wichita, Kas., and was at the bedside when his father died. Mrs. Schultz was also here. In his playing days Schultz was an infielder for the Pittsburgh club.

Rolland E. Greene Scores Hole in One at Kildeer

Rolland E. Greene, 2209 Lincolnwood drive, Evanston, made a hole in one yesterday at Kildeer Country club. It was the 17th hole on the woods' course, 165 yards into the wind, and the first ace this year at Kildeer. It is Greene's second hole in one. The other one was on the Wilmette course about 15 years ago. He played yesterday with Bud Lane and John Hoover Shook of Evanston and Harry Giddes of Kenilworth.

SWEDES DEFEAT GERMANS, 1-0, TO KEEP 2D PLACE

Soccer Match Enlivened by Two Fights.

BY OFFSIDE.

The Swedish Americans defeated the German Americans, 1 to 0, yesterday in a major league soccer match to retain second place in the league race. Nearly 3,000 saw the game. The Swedes scored near the close of the first period when a free kick was awarded them from 20 yards. Johnny Kilgour made the shot into the corner of the net.

A couple of fights helped to enliven proceedings in the second period, during which Kilgour, with only the goalkeeper to beat from five yards, fell over the ball which was cleared by Art Riebe, the Germans' goalkeeper. Lineup:

SWEDISH AMS. [1]. GERMAN AMS. [0].

REDS POUND OUT 20 HITS; CRUSH TIGERS, 16 TO 4

Schoolboy Rowe Folds Up in Rough Fifth.

Cincinnati, O., April 13 (AP).—The Cincinnati Reds collected 20 hits today to square at two-all their exhibition series with the Detroit Tigers, 16 to 4. Six Cincinnati hits were doubles—allowed on a ground rule for hits into folding chairs placed for Tuesday's opener.

Bucky Walters, working his first game after two full weeks of nursing a leg injury, yielded nine hits in seven innings and looked good. The Reds slugged Schoolboy Rowe from the mound in the fifth when Lonnie Frey opened with a single. Walters doubled and Eddie Joost hit his second double. Score:

SENATORS, 9; ORIOLES, 5.

Baltimore, Md., April 13 (AP).—The Washington Senators scored five runs in the fourth inning today and went on to defeat the Baltimore Orioles of the International league, 9 to 5.

Jimmy Bloodworth's two run single was the only hit the Senators got in the fourth. Three walks, a hit batter, a wild pitch, and three errors by the Orioles contributed to the scoring. Bloodworth was hit on the head in the ninth by a ball pitched by Russell Niller and was taken to a hospital for observation. Score:

Sox Beat Cubs, 3 to 2, in Final Game of Series

third. Luke Appling bounced a single off Ed Waitkus' chin and Joe Kuhel singled, Knickerbocker scoring. Solters popped out and Nicholson then staved off disaster by racing toward the wall in right center to make a one handed grab of a clout off Lodigiani's bat. Dean retired immediately.

Myers fixed up his problem for French with one out in the fourth by fumbling Kreevich's roller. Lou Stringer went to the opposite extreme by making a one handed grab which stole a base hit from Tresh. Lyons, however, lined a single into right to send Kreevich across the plate. Knickerbocker hoisted to Nicholson for the third out.

Dallessandro Hits Homer.

Altho tapped fairly hard in the first three innings, Lyons managed his pitching affairs successfully until Dallessandro stepped forth at the start of the fourth and belted his homer over the right field barricade. Just for that jolt Lyons fanned Nicholson. Novikoff sent a long fly to right, but Rosenthal galloped in the wrong direction and the ball dropped behind him for a double. Kuhel cluttered up the situation by fumbling Myers' hopper, after which Stringer singled to left to score Novikoff with the tying run. Lyons stopped the whole thing abruptly by picking up Bob Scheffing's tap for a double play.

The Sox might have given French the business in the fifth instead of the sixth if they hadn't been a bit too ambitious on the bases. Kuhel walked with one out and Solters banged a single into left, Kuhel heading for third. Novikoff threw there, at least in the general direction, and the ball caromed off the bricks near the Cubs' dugout. Kuhel tried to go home on the error, but French captured the loose ball and tossed to Scheffing for an out. Meanwhile Solters went to third but no farther.

32 Prep Nines Open Baseball Season Today

Lane Tech, which has won more baseball championships in the Chicago Public High School league than any other school, will begin defense of its 1940 title today against Waller in the Paul Revere park. Thirty other teams will begin league play.

Coach Percy Moore, who is starting his 21st season in the City league, will send his squad on the field without having played any practice games. From the team which defeated Calumet in the finals last year, only one regular, Benny Kozlik, a 2A sophomore who plays second base, remains. George Kwasniewski, who caught in the finals, is back but will be shifted to right field.

Thirty-Two on Squad.

The Tech squad will be composed of 32 players, 12 of whom are hurlers, and Coach Moore claims he has the best infield in the last 10 years. Heading the list is a sophomore shortstop, Harry Sturm. Moore says, "Sturm has one of the finest throwing arms I have seen in high school, and with two more years of experience he should be a good major league prospect."

The Probable Lineup.

The probable Lane lineup will be George Boyd, catcher; Charles Gibe, pitcher; Herman Fischer, first base; Kozlik, second base; George Klemcyck, third base; Harry Sturm, shortstop; Robert Rzendian, left field; Jim Hickey, center field, and Kwasniewski, right field. Other City league games today follow:

Von Steuben vs. Amundsen at Winnemac park.
Lake View vs. Schurz at Kilbourne park.
Roosevelt vs. Senn at Winnemac park.
Austin vs. Foreman at Chopin park.
Crane vs. Wells at Smith field.
Kelvyn Park vs. Marshall at Humboldt park.
Tilden vs. Harrison at Douglas park.
Lindblom vs. Farragut at Douglas park.
Kelly vs. Phillips at Buettner park.
Gage Park vs. Englewood at Hamilton park.
Hirsch vs. Bowen at Bessmer park.
Morgan Park vs. Calumet at Foster park.
Fenger vs. Parker at Hamilton park.
Harper vs. Hyde Park at Jackson park.

Badger Crew Will Be Light, Inexperienced

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Financial commitments at Western conference universities being what they are it isn't likely crew racing ever will become a Big Ten sport. Lack of facilities as well as the expense obviously prevents all except two or three universities from supporting the sport if they wished.

Wisconsin is the only conference member to maintain a varsity eight. The Badgers have Lake Mendota in their athletic back yard. Minnesota, with even greater civic enthusiasm for crew racing because of the Minneapolis Boat club, may at some indefinite date put a boat on the Mississippi. There has been intermittent agitation for recognition of the sport by the university.

Badgers Go to Poughkeepsie.

Wisconsin annually makes the trip east for the intercollegiate regatta on the Hudson river at Poughkeepsie which this year will be held on June 25. Lack of competition and inexperience have proved insurmountable handicaps in other years and quite likely this situation will prevail again this spring. The Wisconsin schedule always is sketchy and is not arranged until a few weeks before the crew finishes its indoor training. Wisconsin now has only one definite date before the intercollegiate meet. The Badger varsity and freshmen crews will meet Marietta college on the Ohio river May 3.

This year's Wisconsin crew probably will be one of the lightest in Badger history, for the average weight in the varsity boat is only 165 pounds. When Allen Walz, Wisconsin rowing coach, took over last fall it was thought six members of the 1940 crew would report this year. Harold Krueger, stroke, is the only veteran, however, for illness, transfers, and other causes have riddled the squad. Only one regular member of the 1940 junior varsity, Scott Cameron, returned. Thus, Coach Walz faces an impossible task. The complete varsity roster number is 14.

Five Sophomores in Crew.

Five sophomores, who were members of the 1940 freshmen crew, and Krueger, Cameron, and Bud Kaerwer, who has had no rowing experience, constitute the Badger crew. The roster follows:

First boat—Tom McKern, bow; Tom Theis, 2; Don Reek, 3; Cameron, 4; Chester Knight, 5; Kaerwer, 6; George Rae, 7; Krueger, stroke; Jud Walstead, coxswain. Reserves—Bill Binne, Gene Kleinschmidt, Art Slemmons, Jim Yonk, and Andrew Konopka.

ANNIE J. CANNON IS DEAD; FAMED AS ASTRONOMER

U. S. Woman Classified 400,000 Stars.

Cambridge, Mass., April 13 (AP).—Dr. Annie Jump Cannon, 77 years old, of Harvard, most famous woman astronomer in the world, died tonight at a hospital after a month's illness.

Dr. A. J. Cannon.

Miss Cannon, who had been officially retired from Harvard last September, had been working at the Harvard observatory on a special astronomical commission from Yale up to a few weeks ago. Associates at the observatory had expected that she would return to her post in a few weeks.

Discovers 300 Variable Stars.

In her life work at Harvard, she classified more stars than any other person in the world, being credited with the classification of almost 400,000 stellar bodies according to their spectra. She also was the discoverer of more than 300 variable stars, five novae and one spectroscopic binary, or double star.

A native of Dover, Delaware, she was interested in astronomy as a child, and made observations with the aid of a smoking candle from a candelabrum, which even today rests in the living room of her tiny residence —"star cottage"—close by Harvard observatory.

She was the first woman ever to receive an honorary doctor's degree from Oxford university, England, and was the first woman ever to be elected an officer of the American Astronomical society. She also was the only woman honored with a membership in the Royal Astronomical Society of England.

Among 12 Greatest U. S. Women.

In 1929, she was listed among 12 "greatest living American women" chosen by the National League of Women Voters. Her greatest single achievement was the classification of a quarter of a million stars to make up the famed Henry Draper catalog for international use—a work that won her the Henry Draper medal of the National Academy of Sciences in 1931.

Miss Cannon since has worked on the extension of that catalog, and in her most recent work for Yale, was engaged in a "wholesale" classification of stars in a selected zone extending all around the heavens.

A graduate of Wellesley in 1884, she came to Harvard as an assistant in 1897. She was stationed at Harvard observatory in Arequipa, Peru, for a time, and in 1911 became curator of astronomical photographs at Harvard.

MAJ. C. N. JACKSON OF MORGAN PARK ACADEMY IS DEAD

Maj. Campbell N. Jackson, commandant of cadets at the Morgan Park Military academy, 2153 West 111th street, died of a mastoid infection in Evangelical hospital yesterday. He was 45 years old and lived at the academy.

Maj. Jackson was a retired United States army officer. He entered the army in 1917 and served with the rank of captain during the world war. He was a graduate of the infantry school at Fort Benning, Ga., and the general staff school at Fort Leavenworth, Kas. He retired from the army in 1937 because of ill health and was appointed to the Morgan Park academy in 1939.

He leaves his widow, Edna, and a son, Campbell Y., a flying cadet in the United States air force. Services will be held at 10 a. m. tomorrow in St. Barnabas church. Burial will be in Arlington National cemetery.

George T. Sidwell Rites Will Be Held Tomorrow

Services for George T. Sidwell, a retired grain broker, will be held at 3 p. m. tomorrow in the chapel at 4227 Cottage Grove avenue. Mr. Sidwell died a week ago in Los Angeles, Cal. He was 69 years old and lived at 5555 Everett avenue. Burial will be in Oak Woods cemetery.

JOHN E. PTACEK, 79, DIES; RETIRED POLICE CAPTAIN

Funeral services for John E. Ptacek, retired police captain, will be held at 10 a. m. Wednesday in St. Angela's church, Massassoit and Potomac avenues. Capt. Ptacek, who had been a colorful figure in the department for 53 years, died in his home at 1053 North Waller avenue early yesterday. He had been ill for two years.

John E. Ptacek.

Capt. Ptacek served as a captain for 25 years and as a deputy superintendent of police during the administrations of Mayors Carter H. Harrison II. and William E. Dever. He was of Bohemian descent and for 28 years was in command in the Lawndale district, which has a large Bohemian population.

He was born in Ottawa, Ill., 79 years ago, and joined the department Dec. 15, 1884. Two years later, while he was serving as a desk sergeant, he received the first call of the Haymarket riot. He dispatched reserves to the scene. He was retired May 17, 1937.

Surviving are two sons, John E. Jr. and Edward, and two daughters, Mrs. Lillian Zahrobsky and Mrs. Grace Buresch. His wife, Mary, died two years ago.

John Burke, a Veteran of Civil War, Dies at 93

John Burke, one of Chicago's few remaining civil war veterans, died last night in his home at 7947 South Peoria street. He was 93 years old. Mr. Burke was senior vice commander of the Illinois department of the Grand Army of the Republic and a past commander of Wilcox post, No. 688. He leaves four sons, David, with whom he had lived in recent years, Thomas, Eugene, and John Jr., 24 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. Eugene and John Jr. are world war veterans.

D. W. Elwell, Executive of Western Electric, Dies

East Orange, N. J., April 13 [Special].—Dan W. Elwell, 45, division production manager for the Western Electric company, with headquarters in Kearny, N. J., died today. A native of Sheboygan, Wis., he left the University of Illinois in his sophomore year to join the army. After the war he served the Western Electric company in Chicago.

AUTO INDUSTRY NEARING MASS ARMS OUTPUT

Leaders Expect Peak Early in 1943.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., April 13.—With leaders in the automobile industry devoting most of their energies to the national armament program, definite progress is being made toward the attainment of the industry's goal—the mass production of arms, munitions, and airplanes, engines and parts.

This summer is expected to witness a formidable amount of material moving out of the plants—production is already under way in some cases—with the output accelerating thereafter. Some leaders expect the industry's maximum effort to be reached by the spring of 1943. Volume then, they say, will be on a mass production basis undreamed of in the world's industrial history for arms materials.

Maintain Output of Cars.

Meantime, the men who run the large automobile plants have the problem of keeping motor car production in gear with defense production. While building cars they must see to it that there is an adequate supply of arms materials.

"The public should know that the best service that the automobile industry can perform at this stage of the arms program is to maintain output of new cars on as high a level as possible," one executive commented. "Any limit on the production of cars would only result in throwing thousands out of work. Not only would the men and women in the assembly plants lose their jobs, but thousands of others who supply us would have to be laid off.

"And large scale curtailment by edict would also strike a heavy blow at the national economy by reducing income. We will need all the income we can get to provide a source of taxes. We expect that there will be a curtailment in production thru natural causes such as difficulty in getting certain materials and certainly thru rising prices."

Prepare for Using New Plant.

An example of the way the industry is dovetailing motor car production with military work is found in the huge plant of the Buick division of General Motors at Flint. There a staff of 200 engineers, technicians and others is working on plans and specifications, arranging for the purchase of materials and buying the machinery which will be required at the company's aircraft engine plant being built at Melrose Park near Chicago.

The company is making its arrangements so that when the plant is completed, probably in the late summer or early fall, there will be a force ready start. As progress is made in the preliminary work the force assigned to the aircraft engine division is expanded. Experts from the automobile assembly lines are being prepared to take over in the aircraft engine assembly line when the time comes.

Looking ahead a few months the automobile makers give assurance that there will be new models for 1942. But they also add prices will rise substantially on the new models because of the higher prices for parts and materials caused by wage and other boosts.

MORE ALUMINUM IS RELEASED FOR COMMERCIAL USE

Washington, D. C., April 13 [Special].—A supplementary order modifying the general priority restrictions recently established for aluminum to permit a wider distribution of low grade aluminum for commercial uses was announced today.

Under the general order consumers of aluminum whose orders were rated in preference classes from B-2 to B-8 could obtain quantities of the metal ranging from 10 to 80 per cent of 1940 shipments from the same producers. Now B-2 consumers instead of 80 may obtain 100 per cent of low grade aluminum; B-3, 100 instead of 70 per cent; B-4, 90 instead of 60 per cent; B-5, 80 instead of 50; B-6, 70 instead of 40; B-7, 60 instead of 30; B-8, 50 instead of 10 per cent.

SHIP SHORTAGE THREATENS GAIN IN LATIN TRADE

Book Cargo Space Far in Advance.

BY HERBERT VEDDER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 13.—A shortage of ships, fast becoming more acute, threatens soon to be an even greater obstacle to development of Latin American trade than the long-time lack of dollar exchange in South and Central American nations.

Foreign trade experts and shippers here disclosed today that the two year trend toward huge balances of United States exports over imports from Latin America definitely has been reversed during the last several months. Continuance of the reversed trend would give South and Central American countries the dollar exchange—credits—to expand further their purchases here of goods formerly obtained in markets cut off by the European war.

Allot Space for Cargoes.

Heavy purchases of metals and other materials needed for the national armament and British aid programs have been the principal factor in the increased trade flow northward. Cargo space is being booked months in advance, goods are piling up on docks and in warehouses, and a system of "voluntary" priorities has been set up to allot precious shipping space to most needed materials.

Altho the pileup is generally regarded as worst on the west coast—where the sharp stepup in copper, nitrate, and other purchases has led Chile to spurn a proferred $10,000,000 loan—an east coast shipping authority said:

Little Relief in Prospect.

Eugene P. Thomas, president of the National Foreign Trade council, said cargo space not only is insufficient at present but the situation is growing more serious. He added that increased United States imports are alleviating Latin American shortage of dollar exchange.

Foreign trade and shipping circles have declined to venture an opinion as to whether the prospective seizure of 69 Danish and axis ships of 590,000 tons in American waters eventually might help relieve the lack of cargo space. All recognize inter-American trade must compete with army, navy, British, and Pacific demands for more ships. New construction in American yards will net only about 1 million tons of merchant ships this year, including vessels being built for Britain.

Commander Robert C. Lee, executive vice president of the Moore-McCormack Lines, serving the east coast, said the only real problem now is to find enough space to transport cargoes moving north, principally from Buenos Aires. He said there will be little trouble in expanding United States exports south when the Latins get dollar exchange from increased sales of their goods here.

Argentine Position Eased.

Larger United States purchases, particularly of wool and hides, are easing Argentina's desperate shortage of dollar exchange to the point where trade authorities see some hope for moderate loosenjng of its rigid import controls to permit larger purchases here of needed machinery, steel products, and other goods. Argentina has substantial credits with Britain, but British deliveries have fallen below expectations. The Argentine economic situation still is regarded as very difficult, however, because of surpluses of agricultural products formerly sent to Europe.

Hopes for relieving the ship shortage somewhat late this year lie in delivery of several large, fast new ships. The hard pressed Grace Line, principal west coast carrier, is relying on two ships of 13,860 ton displacement going into service in August and September to meet its metals moving contracts.

Moore-McCormack has four 17,500 ton ships coming into service this year, the first in August. The last of these, the Rio de Janeiro, was launched yesterday by the Sun Shipbuilding and Drydock company, Chester, Pa.

Service to Be Weekly.

These 5 million dollar ships are 492 feet long, have space for 440,000 cubic feet of cargo and 197 passengers, and are the first to have air conditioning in all staterooms as well as private rooms. They will permit substitution of weekly for fortnightly service to the east coast of South America.

Both Grace and Moore-McCormack have surrendered ships to the navy and army for supply and transport service, but are hoping present priorities will prevent further losses.

"I feel," said Commander Lee, "that it is part of the program of national defense that we maintain first class shipping services to South America. I cannot overemphasize the importance of building and operating the finest ships possible to render the finest service possible between our country and the South American countries. They want to buy our goods because they recognize their high quality."

Moore-McCormack has added 12 ships of 200,000 tons displacement since Jan. 1, 1940, while losing five, of 80,000 tons, to the navy. Its fleet will total 36 ships by the end of this year if it does not lose any of the nine under charter. Sailings scheduled this year total 168, compared with 114, 63, and 48 in the preceding three years.

The company expects to carry nearly 1,500,000 dead weight tons of cargo in each direction this year, compared with 672,605 tons northbound and 576,713 southbound last year, and 345,570 north and 216,576 south in 1939.

Grace Line policy prevents official comment on business increases and ship shortages, but it is learned that the situation has become so pressing that J. E. Magner, freight traffic manager, left last Wednesday to speed up loading and movement of cargoes piling up on west coast docks.

Authentic trade reports assert Grace Line northbound shipments are running at a rate of 850,000 to 900,000 tons annually—about half of it copper, compared with a prewar level of 250,000 tons a year. Principal metal shipments have soared from a prewar basis of 5,000 to 6,000 tons a month to more than 40,000 monthly.

Little change has occurred in general cargo shipments southbound, which are led by iron and steel products and machinery. Shipments of materials to the Canal Zone in connection with armament efforts, however, have produced a substantial upturn on that part of the run.

Doubles Cargo Capacity.

The Alcoa Steamship Line, a subsidiary of the Aluminum Company of America, has almost doubled its cargo capacity as a direct result of the European war. Including six to be delivered in a nine-ship, $21,000,000 building program, Alcoa will have 25 of its own ships by early 1942.

"Even so," said an official, "pressure for space, particularly northbound, keeps us scratching and trying to obtain more charters. Whenever we get a new ship, for example, the British are apt to decide they need one of the Norwegian ships we have under charter."

Alcoa's principal business, carrying increased quantities of bauxite from British and Dutch Guiana, to be made into aluminum, fills practically all northbound space available.

CRYOLITE.

I would like some information about cryolite. I understand the Pennsylvania Salt Manufacturing company imports large quantities of the substance. Do you have a report on this company?—D. K.

Answer: Cryolite is a colorless mineral found in natural form only at Ivigtut, Greenland. It is composed of fluorine, sodium, and aluminum, and is used in making enamelware, porcelain, tile, and glass. Artificial cryolite is employed largely in the aluminum industry as a flux to melt aluminum oxide.

The Pennsylvania Salt Manufacturing company, Philadelphia, is the only American concern which receives a supply of natural cryolite under an agreement with the owners of the Ivigtut mine. The company calls the mineral Greenland Kryolith.

The company manufactures approximately 35 chemical products, including sulphuric, hydrochloric, and nitric acids, liquid chlorine, ammonia, salt, and cleaning fluids. Its leading customers are the steel, paper, chemical, laundry and dry cleaning, textile, and aluminum industries.

Profits of the company in the latest fiscal year were the second highest in the last 20 years. The earnings record in the last five fiscal years ended June 30, follows:

1936	$1,285,645	$ 8.57	$8.50
1937	1,769,407	11.79	8.75
1938	1,035,499	6.90	4.50
1939	1,294,087	8.63	6.00
1940	1,726,874	11.51	9.00

For 12 months ending Dec. 31, 1940, net income was $1,701,333, equal to $11.34 a share, compared with $1,577,569, or $10.52 a share in the preceding year.

A dividend of $2 a share was paid March 15. The company has an unbroken dividend record dating back to 1863. Capitalization of the company consists of 150,000 shares of $50 par capital stock. The shares are listed on the Philadelphia Stock exchange and traded on the New York curb.

STOCKYARDS.

Answer: The stockyards owned by subsidiaries of the United Stockyards corporation are located at South St. Paul, Minn.; Sioux City, Ia.; Fort Worth, Tex.; Toronto, Ont., Canada; Milwaukee, Wis.; North Portland, Ore.; South San Francisco, Cal., and Boston, Mass.

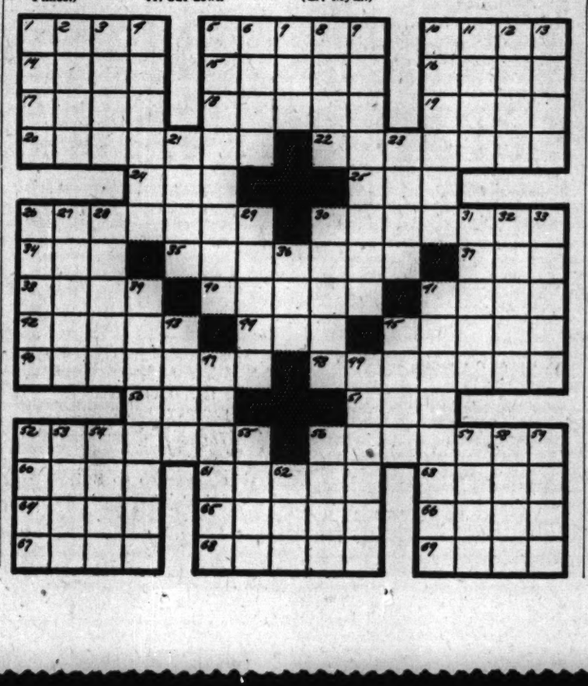
PUZZLE OF SATURDAY, APRIL 12, SOLVED



COAL DEADLOCK IS UNBROKEN; PARLEY TODAY

Southern Operators Reject Bid.

New York, April 13 [Special].—The deadlock in the negotiations for a new agreement in the bituminous coal industry continued today without action either in New York or Washington looking toward a solution.

Dr. John R. Steelman, who proposed settlement plan.

It was hoped that resumption of operations in part of the industry would become possible after a conference tomorrow to be attended by representatives of the United Mine Workers and operators of the northern Appalachian area, who previously expressed their readiness to reopen their mines on the basis of the proposal made by Dr. John R. Steelman, director of the United States conciliation service.

Steelman's proposal called for resumption of operations, pending further negotiations, on the basis of making the agreement finally reached retroactive to the date of reopening of the mines. Acceptance of his proposal would make possible the return to work of 250,000 miners in two-thirds of the soft coal fields.

Southern operators, who have been invited to the conference after their bolt of the negotiations last Friday, let it be known today they would not attend.

W. E. E. Koepler, secretary of the newly formed Southern Coal Operators' association, indicated that the southerners were determined to maintain their opposition to the union's demand for elimination of the wage differential favoring the southern region which has deadlocked the negotiations.

Under present arrangements, northern operators pay $6 a day, southern operators, $5.60. The northerners have agreed to a $1 raise to $7, but the best offer made thus far by the southerners is a 60 cent increase to $6.20.

Some Farm Facts.

THERE are some interesting farm facts in the 1940 report of the census bureau in Washington, D. C., that throw light on the trend of farming in Illinois and in the nation.

The size of the average American farm increased approximately 17 acres during the 1930-'40 decade, according to bureau reports. The average acreage of the American farm was 174 last year, compared with 156.9 acres in 1930 and 154.8 in 1935.

The increase was attributed to the merging of farms in the midwest due to drouth, increasing mechanization of farming, higher taxes, and lower farm prices. Illinois farms showed an increase in acreage over the decade from 143.1 acres in 1930 to 145.4 acres for 1940.

Cash Income Gaining.

The cash income of Illinois farmers from farm marketings of crops, live stock, and live stock products has been increasing steadily since 1937. Last year farmers in the state had a cash income of more than 199 million dollars from crops alone. The cash income from live stock and their products amounted to more than 336 million dollars. These figures compare with 173 million dollars received in 1938 from crops and 311 million received from live stock and live stock products in 1938.

Last year the 213,439 farms in Illinois had a total cash income from farm marketings amounting to $535,874,000. In addition to this a total of $35,750,000 was received by farmers in the state thru government payments. A breakdown of the figures reveals that the average cash income per farm from marketings last year was $2,511, while government payments totaled $167 per farm.

The percentage of farms in the state operated by tenants has decreased since 1935 and has returned to the 1930 level. In Illinois last year, 43.1 per cent of the farms were tenant operated, as was the case in 1930. This figure compares with 44.5 per cent in 1935. Authorities attribute the increase in tenancy from 1930 to 1935 to the depression and state that the upswing of business conditions and farm prices after 1935 wiped out most of this increase.

Planted Acreage Drops.

A survey by the Illinois and federal departments of agriculture reveals that the total planted acreage of Illinois spring crops is expected to be approximately 1 per cent smaller than that of 1940. Early spring indications are for about the same acreage of corn as in 1940, a decrease of 10 per cent in soy bean acreage, and increases of 5 per cent in oat seedings, and 15 per cent in barley.

The survey was made before the new price pegging program of the department of agriculture was announced, so the figure for corn may be changed somewhat.

The survey indicates, however, that approximately 7,551,000 acres will go into corn this year, 2,758,000 acres into soy beans, 3,509,000 acres into oats, and 160,000 acres into barley. Prospective hay acreage for 1941 is 4 per cent less than the 1940 acreage.

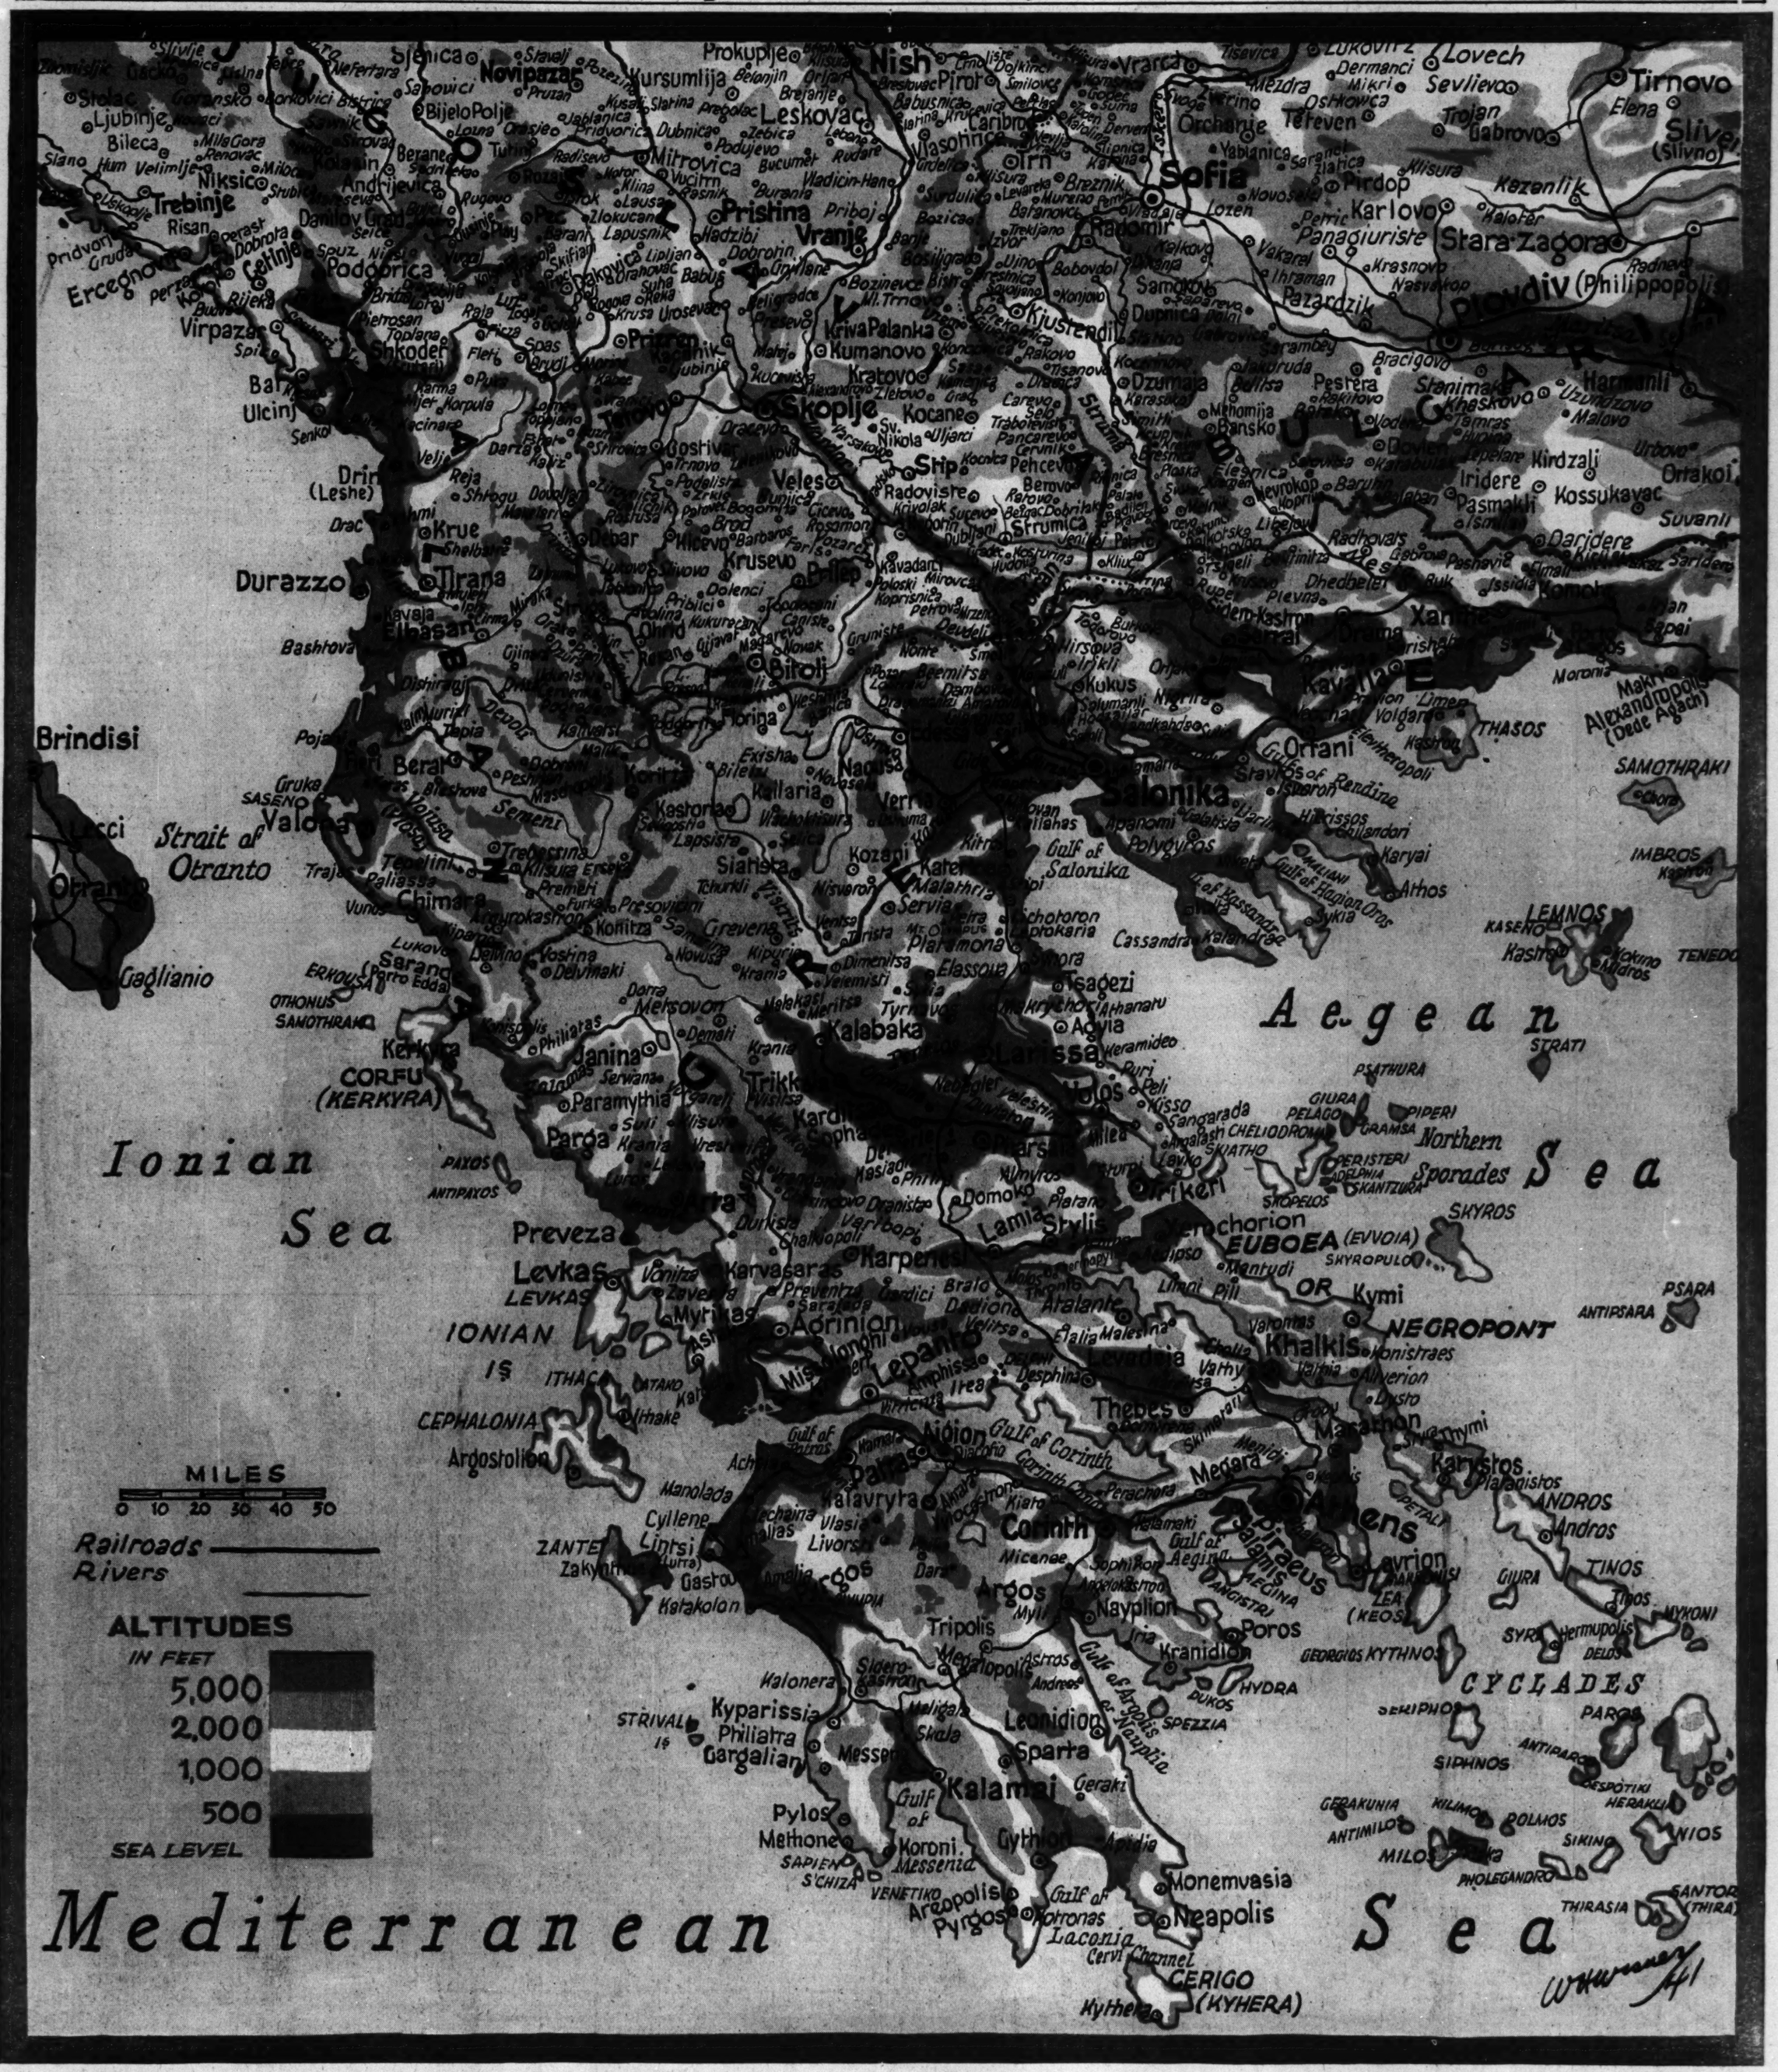
New Tribune Contour Color Map of Greece and Adjacent Areas Now in the War News



For a better understanding of the war now raging in southeastern Europe The Tribune offers its readers this unusual contour map of the areas affected. Prepared entirely by Tribune staff artists, the map shows elevations from sea level to 5,000 feet or over. In green and light yellow are the valleys and slightly higher upland plains. The heavy reddish tan indicates mountain areas that are virtually impassable. Boundaries of the various countries are indicated in solid red lines. The key in the lower left corner provides a scale by which readers may determine the elevation of any area. Readers are advised to save this map and keep it in a convenient place for reference on the military developments reported from day to day in the Balkan sector. It is the first map of its kind to be printed in such detail for readers of a daily newspaper.
